BOARD UPHOLDS HOME SUPERINTENDENT DORMITORY AT BRICK PLANT IS DESTROYED; CHECK NOT COMPLETE

SCHOOL HEAD AMONG OTHERS DISCHARGED RESULT OF HEARING

Action Amounts To Vote Of Confidence In Burton

What amounted to a vote of confidence in the administration of Superintendent Chas. V. Burton of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home here was taken by the board of trustees Saturday night when they discharged employees previously suspended by Burton in a reorganization of the management of the institution.

Action of the trustees upheld the suspension by Burton of several employees, endorsed his attempt to establish what he terms a "business administration" at the home and instructed the superintendent to proceed with the reorganization program he has laid out.

Christian E. Burckel, Cleveland, suspended superintendent of education and public instruction, was chief among those discharged by the board. Burckel came to the home last summer from Collingwood High School, Cleveland, succeeding W. S. Sackett, who had been superintendent of Home schools for years.

Shortly after his appointment he was suspended by the Rev. J. Norman King, Bluffton, former superintendent, but was reinstated almost immediately by the trustees. The trustees with Burckel is believed to have hastened the resignation of King, who left the home after a brief tenure of office on the plea that his program for the institution met with insurmountable obstructions. He was succeeded by Superintendent Burton.

Burckel, suspended last Tuesday by the superintendent, returned to the home Saturday and was given a hearing before the trustees before his discharge was voted. He claimed that his duties were interfered with and his authority had been restricted by the superintendent. Other suspended employees, whose names were not divulged, were given hearings at the same time and discharged.

The position of Mrs. Burckel as welfare director remains in doubt, as she has neither been suspended nor discharged. Appointments to fill the vacancies have been left in the hands of Superintendent Burton subject to confirmation by the trustees. Such appointments as are necessary will probably be made by the superintendent before the next board meeting, so that they can be confirmed then.

Superintendent Burton continues to deny reports of "wholesale" resignations or discharges among employees, saying that only a few have been affected by his organization plans, but that there have been other defections from causes not attributed to his system. "The Home is getting along all right," he said after the board meeting. He indicated no alarm over the numerous changes and said he would continue his reorganization program with the endorsement of the board.

GAME CALLED - RAIN

FOURTH SERIES TILT WASHED OUT MONDAY BY HEAVY DOWNPOUR

Judge Landis Postpones Contest After Viewing Field; Sherdel Will Face Hoyt Again In Final Fracas.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 8.—The fourth game of the world series between the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees was called off today because of a heavy downpour of rain this morning. Judge K. M. Landis, czar of baseball, made the final decision at noon after inspecting the field.

A light but persistent rain at 7 a. m. increased the possibility of postponement.

Shortly after 8 a. m. a heavy thunder shower broke over the city, increasing the hitherto light rain to a downpour. Brilliant lightning accompanied the storm.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 8.—A diminutive, sandy-haired southpaw pitcher, Willie Sherdel, of the St. Louis Cardinals will lead one of those "forlorn hope" drives when the National League champions fight to escape a "white washing" at the hands of the unfeeling New York Yankees in the fourth game Tuesday.

Upon Sherdel's good left arm, his whirling fast ball, hook curve, and change of pace, the last chance of the Cardinals to escape the disaster of defeat in four straight games, depends.

The Yankees, riding the crest of a victorious wave, with scalps denoting three straight victories, are looking for a fourth. They are pitching ace, Waite Hoyt, primed and ready for the game. They also have the comfortable knowledge that they have beaten every pitcher Bill McKechnie has sent to the hill.

With Hoyt opposing Sherdel once more and the Cardinals disheartened by successive defeats, betting odds of 7 to 5 favored the American League champions to repeat the triumph of four straight games which they scored over the Pittsburgh Pirates a year ago.

It is a little late now, even for genial Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Club, to expect the Cards to come through and win themselves another world's championship. They tossed away their chances of doing that in the first three games. The team didn't hit in the first two games and their two supposedly most dependable pitchers yielded to the indomitable thrust of Yankee bats. Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig saw to that.

Sunday's baseball game, played in the presence of 39,602 cash customers and several thousand others, was a sorry spectacle. With out detracting from the home run hitting of husky Lou Gehrig and the pitching effort of Tom Zachary, it must be admitted that the Cards themselves tossed away what seemed like their last chance to stave off defeat in this 1928 series.

Lou Gehrig

Lou Gehrig, slugging Yankee first baseman, "home run twin" of the famed Babe Ruth, wrote his name in baseball's hall of fame at St. Louis Sunday when he clouted two home runs to help his team defeat the Cardinals for the third straight time in the present world series games.

SEEK KIDNAPER OF YOUNG GIRL

Crippled Child Is Left In Massillon By Stranger.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8.—Irene Vavrek, 12-year-old crippled girl, was to be taken to Akron today in an effort to find trace of a man who kidnapped her Saturday night and abandoned her in Massillon.

The child said the man met her near a theater and asked her to come with him to take care of a baby. He offered her $1. After getting her in his auto, he sped out of the city.

Irene told policemen she remembered going through Akron, on the other side of Akron, near a flying field, she said the man, wearing an iron pipe, forced her to get out of the car.

When a man approached across the field, she was hurried back into the auto, and her abductor drove away.

The girl was found in Massillon Sunday and brought back to Cleveland by Policewoman Cecelia Piotoski. Physicians were to examine her today, and she then was to be taken to Akron. Police have a description of the kidnaper.

OPERATORS WORK IN RELAYS TO PREVENT SHOW BEING HALTED

Police Breathless Arresting Theater Men Over And Over

MARTINS FERRY, O., Oct. 8.—Five moving picture operators were to face charges of Sunday blue law violation today after spending the Sabbath playing in again-out-again with a breathless police force.

Working in relays, the operators succeeded in giving a complete, if somewhat interrupted show despite a total of twenty-two arrests gathered by the quintet.

A week ago the movies were permitted to operate after the grand jury refused to indict operators previously arrested. Then the Martins Ferry Ministerial Association complained.

Mayor Howard A. Duff ordered the lid clamped down on the movies again, and police were present when the first show started.

When the screen was lit across it, the policeman made his way to the projection booth and informed Louis Eick that he was under arrest.

Eick grinned, shrugged his shoulders and nodded to another man in the booth. The patrolman took Eick to jail and went back to the theater. The show was progressing.

William Vogler went to jail. At the jail was a surety company representative, prepared to give up to $25,000 bond. But $200 was needed for each charge.

While Eick and Vogler were arranging bond, Kenneth Koehn took up the projection work. Upon his arrest he was followed by his brother Carl and then Kenneth Maguire took up the work.

By the time they were taken to jail, the others were out on bond, and so the thing went throughout the afternoon, with three of the operators being arrested five times, one four times and the other three.

It was breathless work for the police but the show went on. The next act will be staged in Mayor Duff's courtroom today.

LARRY SEMON, FILM PLAYER, TAKEN BY DEATH

VICTORVILLE, Calif., Oct. 8.—Larry Semon, noted screen comedian, died at the Garcelon Ranch near here early today.

Death was caused by pneumonia which he contracted while he was attempting to recover from a nervous breakdown. His wife, Dorothy Dawn, the actress, was at his bedside when he died.

AIRPLANE SEARCH LAKES ERIE FOR HUNTERS APPARENTLY LOST

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 8.—An airplane today circled above the islands and water of Lake Erie in search of two Toledoans who have been missing since Saturday when they started from Oak Harbor, O., on a hunting trip in an outboard motorboat.

The men are Homer C. Stuber and Gene Rumph, who motored to Oak Harbor where they rented a boat. The pair was out on the lake by 5 a. m.

A fishing party reported having seen the men as their boat was between the mouth of the Touseaint River and West Sister Island.

DEFENDS HONOR

ROME, Oct. 8.—The administration of Prince Spada Potenzi, retired governor of Rome, stands vindicated today.

Potenziani wounded Prince Lancelotti, who is said to have criticized the former's rule, in a duel of honor staged yesterday. Lancelotti is said to have declared the reason for the governor's displacement by Mussolini was graft. Count Di Sambuy was previously wounded by Lancelotti in a duel with rapiers over the same dispute.

TEXTILE MILLS ARE PARTLY RE-OPENED AFTER LONG STRIKE

Police Make Arrests To Prevent Trouble At Mills

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 8.—New Bedford's fifty-six textile mills, closed for twenty-five weeks by a strike of 27,000 operatives, were partly reopened today with hundreds of police from five cities and towns co-operating to prevent violence.

During the first hour, twenty-eight men and women, all members of the so-called radical textile mills committee, which had opposed ending the strike, were arrested.

No serious trouble had developed however.

The threat of the so-called radical group, to "meet the police blow for blow," failed to materialize and those arrested were taken into custody on charges of disturbing the peace and loitering.

They were part of a small army of textile mills committee members who gathered at mill gates to heckle returning strikers. Those arrested were to be arraigned later today.

On duty at the various mill gates following threats of violence from the anti-compromise group of so-called radicals, were 300 police men including squads from Fall River, Taunton, Fairhaven and Dartmouth.

The strike ended Saturday when the seven unions voted unanimously to accept the manufacturer's compromise plan under which wages will be cut 5 per cent instead of 10.

A faction of legionnaires led by Gen. Roy Hoffman, of Oklahoma, candidate for national commander, is expected to oppose the union attempts of Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, deputy assistant chief of air service, to have passed a resolution urging establishment of an aviation department in the national government.

Mitchell was to arrive today to join 60,000 former service men attending the meeting. Mitchell rose from a sick bed to come to the convention, which is being held in the city where he was located when he first drew official censure for his attacks on the air service. He led an unsuccessful fight at the Paris convention last year for the adoption of his resolution.

Outwardly, the legionnaires are the same boisterous doughboys they were in France. This city, a center of military operations during the war, has been turned over to them for their convention, which is being held within the shadow of the Alamo, historical mark of Texas' first battle for freedom.

Louisville and Detroit are making strong campaigns for the next convention.

STAR GAZING
Babe Ruth, Yankees—Singled twice in four trips, scoring two runs.
Lou Gehrig, Yankees—Drove out two home runs, one inside the park and the other on top of the right field stands and walked twice. He scored two runs and drove in three others.
Jim Bottomley, Cardinals—Got a triple in four trips, driving in two runs.
Chic Hefley, Cardinals—Singled to left and got a scratch hit off Robertson's glove in four trips.

State Penitentiary Prisoners At Gobles Trapped In Old Building; Eight Taken To Pen Hospital At Columbus.

JUNCTION CITY, O., Oct. 8.—Twenty-one Ohio State penitentiary prisoners assigned to the brick plant two miles west of here were either burned to death or seriously injured in a fire that broke out in the basement of their dormitory about 1 o'clock this morning.

The number of men dead and the number seriously burned will not be determined until prison officials complete their check of records.

Communication with the brick plant office was impossible because telephone wires were down.

The fire, believed to have been caused by defective wiring, broke out in the basement, in which clothing was stored. The 272 prisoners were thrown into confusion and made desperate attempts to escape through the two exits.

Unable to reach the fire escapes, some of the prisoners jumped through windows.

Eight prisoners were known to have been seriously burned and were taken to the penitentiary hospital in Columbus.

A prisoner named Welch assumed command of the situation shortly after the fire was discovered. He enlisted the aid of others, but they were unable to save any of the property.

In the absence of Warden Thomas, who is attending a convention in Kansas City, Miss Amanda Thomas, his daughter, took charge of organizing prison officials.

The dormitory was a temporary structure built in 1919 and had been in use since. Plans have been under way to build a new brick plant at Rosselle but legislation and litigation involving the lease, have delayed construction.

Although stampeding and confusion resulted, brick plant officials were able to control the prisoners who escaped the fire. They were taken to nearby barns and garages. Most of the prisoners lost all their clothing.

Truckloads of clothing were dispatched immediately from the state penitentiary at Columbus. Food to last several days also was sent from Columbus.

Deputy Warden Blosser said he believed from twelve to fifteen men perished.

Guard I. N. Grafton first discovered the fire. He called another guard and they went to the basement of the dormitory. As they opened the door, flames twenty feet high shot out.

William O'Malley, 35, Cleveland, serving six years for automobile stealing, smelled smoke shortly after 12:30 a. m., he said.

O'Malley was in the bakery. He rushed through the building sounding an alarm.

Pandemonium broke loose. The prisoners, caught in the dormitory like rats, stormed the doors and windows.

Some were trampled to death, while others were killed by falling debris, guards said.

The brick plant's fire whistle aroused residents in Junction City and vicinity. They were pressed into service to guard the prisoners who were at liberty inside the stockade.

Of the eight admitted to the penitentiary hospital three are in a serious condition.

They are: Arthur Frakes, 27, serving one to three years for non-support from Richland County.

Ralph C. Braun, 26, serving one to three years for passing a check without funds from Summit County.

John Koman, 27, serving two to seven years for receiving stolen property from Cuyahoga County.

Others not so seriously injured were:

Harvey Gibson, 24, from Summit County, serving two to seven years for entering a dwelling.

Harold Cline, 24, of Franklin County, serving five to twenty years for auto stealing.

Nelson Barger, 40, of Lucas County.

VICTIM TELLS OF PRISON FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—From his cot in the Ohio State Penitentiary hospital here, Ralph Braun, swathed in bandages and so badly burned that he could not move, told the story of the disastrous fire at the Junction City prison brick plant.

"Shortly after midnight," Braun mumbled, "we all woke up under someone ran through the place bawling, 'fire! fire!'"

"I jumped out of my bunk. Flames were coming up the stairway from the basement."

"The men went into a panic. Most of them knew they were caught—like rats in a trap. They ran to the doors, trying to break them down. By this time, the whole building was in flames."

"It seemed like twenty minutes before the first door was unlocked. The men rushed for that one door the only way to escape. They were fighting and walking over each other. They wanted to get out, no matter what they had to do to get out into the open."

"I tried to break through the crowd, but I was knocked down and walked over by a bunch of prisoners."

"I must have 'passed out' and I didn't 'come to' until I was out in the open."

POLITICS BARRED AT CATHOLIC MEET

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 8.—The American home was put under a microscope and carefully dissected today by 500 delegates to the eighth annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women when they met here.

In her opening address, Mary G. Hawks, national president, reaffirmed the stand taken Sunday by the most Rev. John T. McNichols, archbishop of Cincinnati, in formally opening the four-day meeting, that politics will have no place at this convention.

The Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of Cleveland, reiterated emphatically that there is no political purpose in the meeting of representatives of the Catholic women of the country at this time at the mass meeting Sunday night.

FORMER XENIAN FOUND SUICIDE

Andrew Kelbie, 320 Johnson St., Dayton, former Xenian, discovered the body of John G. Skapik, 38, 1358 W. Harvard Blvd., Dayton, who hanged himself in the new basement of the new Central Market, 34 S. Jefferson St., Dayton, which he owned, last Friday afternoon.

Kelbie is a butcher and was employed by Skapik and had charge of supplying other of Skapik's stores from the central market. He went into the cellar for stock when he discovered the body of his employee hanging from a basement pipe. Kelbie is a brother of Amos Kelbie, S. West St., Xenia.

Smith added that "no one questions the integrity or efficiency of the great bulk of the election machinery in Ohio" and declared that he is surprised that Brown should seek to escape his responsibility for the delay in announcement of the primary results.

STATE, NATIONAL BANK CALLS ISSUED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The comptroller of currency today issued a call for the condition of all national banks as of October 3.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—E. H. Blair, state superintendent of banks, today issued a state bank call as of October 3.

A fishing party reported having seen the men as their boat was between the mouth of the Touseaint River and West Sister Island.

George Hofmann and George Wells, aviators, took off at day break today to search for the men. Sheriff Charles Cover of Ottawa County hired a speed boat Sunday and stayed on the lake until late last night in an attempt to find the hunters.

Authorities believe the men may be marooned on one of the islands off the Oak Harbor shore.

What amounted to a vote of confidence in the administration of Superintendent Chas. V. No serious trouble had developed however. The threat of the so-called radical group to "meet the police blow for blow," failed to materialize and those arrested were taken into custody on charges of disturbing the peace and loitering.

They were part of a small army of textile mills committee members who gathered at mill gates to heckle returning strikers. Those arrested were to be arraigned later today.

On duty at the various mill gates following threats of violence from the anti-compromise group of so-called radicals, were 300 police-men including squads from Fall River, Taunton, Fairhaven and Dartmouth.

The strike ended Saturday when the seven unions voted unanimously to accept the manufacturers' compromise plan under which wages will be cut 5 per cent instead of 10.

SEPARATION OF AIR SERVICE OBJECT OF DISPUTE BY LEGION

Resolution Will Be Bitterly Fought At Convention.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 8.—A bitter fight over the adoption of a resolution urging separation of air service from army and navy departments loomed as the annual national convention of the American Legion opened here today.

A faction of legionnaires led by Gen. Roy Hoffman, of Oklahoma, candidate for national commander, is expected to oppose strenuously the attempt of Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, deputy assistant chief of army air service, to have of army air service, to have passed a resolution urging establishment of an aviation department in the national government.

Mitchell was to arrive today to join 60,000 former service men attending the meeting. Mitchell rose from a sick bed to come to the convention, which is being held in the city where he was located when he first drew official censure for his attacks on the air service. He led an unsuccessful fight at the Paris convention last year for the adoption of his resolution.

Outwardly, the legionnaires are the same boisterous doughboys they were in France. This city, a center of military operations during the war, has been turned over to them for their convention, which is being held within the shadow of the Alamo, historical mark of Texas' first battle for freedom.

Louisville and Detroit are making strong campaigns for the next convention.

APPEAL DENIED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—William Edward Hickman, youthful kidnaper and murderer of Marion Parker, twelve-year-old school girl, today was denied a United States Supreme Court appeal of his sentence to the gallows. He is scheduled to be hanged October 19, in Los Angeles.

DORMITORY AT BRICK PLANT IS DESTROYED; CHECK NOT COMPLETE

State Penitentiary Prisoners At Gobles Trapped In Old Building; Eight Taken To Pen Hospital At Columbus.

JUNCTION CITY, O., Oct. 8.—Twenty-one Ohio State penitentiary prisoners assigned to the brick plant two miles west of here were either burned to death or seriously injured in a fire that broke out in the basement of their dormitory about 1 o'clock this morning.

The number of men dead and the number seriously burned will not be determined until prison officials complete their check of records.

Communication with the brick plant office was impossible because telephone wires were down.

The fire, believed to have been caused by defective wiring, broke out in the basement, in which clothing was stored. The 272 prisoners were thrown into confusion and made desperate attempts to escape through the two exits.

Unable to reach the fire escapes, some of the prisoners jumped through windows.

Eight prisoners were known to have been seriously burned and were taken to the penitentiary hospital in Columbus.

A prisoner named Welch assumed command of the situation shortly after the fire was discovered. He enlisted the aid of others, but they were unable to save any of the property.

In the absence of Warden Thomas, who is attending a convention in Kansas City, Miss Amanda Thomas, his daughter, took charge of organizing prison officials.

The dormitory was a temporary structure built in 1919 and had been in use since. Plans have been under way to build a new brick plant at Roseville but legislation and litigation involving the lease, have delayed construction.

Although stampeding and confusion resulted, brick plant officials were able to control the prisoners who escaped the fire. They were taken to nearby barns and garages. Most of the prisoners lost all their clothing.

Truckloads of clothing were dispatched immediately from the state penitentiary at Columbus. Food to last several days also was sent from Columbus.

Deputy Warden Blosser said he believed from twelve to fifteen men perished.

Guard L. N. Grafton first discovered the fire. He called another guard and they went to the basement of the dormitory. As they opened the door, flames twenty feet high shot out.

William O'Malley, 35, Cleveland, serving six years for automobile stealing, smelled smoke shortly after 12:30 a. m., he said. O'Malley was in the bakery. He rushed through the building sounding an alarm.

Pandemonium broke loose. The prisoners, caught in the dormitory like rats, stormed the doors and windows.

Some were trampled to death, while others were killed by falling debris, guards said.

The brick plant's fire whistle aroused residents in Junction City and vicinity. They were pressed into service to guard the prisoners who were at liberty inside the stockade.

Of the eight admitted to the pen hospital three are in a serious condition.

They are: Arthur Frakes, 27, serving one to three years for non-support from Richland County.

Ralph C. Draun, 26, serving one to three years for passing a check without funds from Summit County.

John Koman, 27, serving two to seven years for receiving stolen property from Cuyahoga County.

Others not so seriously injured were:

Harvey Gibson, 24, from Summit County, serving two to seven years for entering a dwelling.

Harold Cline, 24, of Franklin County, serving five to twenty years for auto stealing.

Nelson Barger, 40, of Lucas County.

VICTIM TELLS OF PRISON FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—From his cot in the Ohio State Penitentiary hospital here, Ralph Braun, swathed in bandages and so badly burned that he could not move, told the story of the disastrous fire at the Junction City prison brick plant.

"Shortly after midnight," Braun mumbled, "we all woke up when someone ran through the place hollering, 'fire! fire!'"

"I jumped out of my bunk. Flames were coming up the stairway from the basement."

"The men went into a panic. Most of them knew they were caught—like rats in a trap. They ran to the doors, trying to break them down. By this time, the whole building was in flames."

"It seemed like twenty minutes before the first door was unlocked. The men rushed for that one door—the only way to escape. They were fighting and walking over each other. They wanted to get out, no matter what they had to do to get out into the open."

"I tried to break through the crowd, but I was knocked down and walked over by a bunch of prisoners."

"I must have 'passed out' and I didn't 'come to' until I was out in the open."

POLITICS BARRED AT CATHOLIC MEET

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 8.—The American home was put under a microscope and carefully dissected today by 500 delegates to the eighth annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women when the first general session was called to order here.

In her opening address, Mary G. Hawks, national president, reaffirmed the stand taken Sunday by the most Rev. John T. McNichols, archbishop of Cincinnati, in formally opening the four-day meeting, that politics will have no place at this convention.

The Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of Cleveland, reiterated emphatically that there is no political purpose in the meeting of representatives of the Catholic women of the country at this time at the mass meeting Sunday night.

DAVID STETHEM IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

David Stethem, 72, father of Clark Stethem, Springfield, former Xenia motorcycle policeman, died at his home in Jamestown at 6 o'clock Sunday night following a twelve-day illness.

Mr. Stethem was born March 2, 1856.

Surviving besides his widow, Mrs. Alice Stethem, are six children: Mrs. Fred Bales, James-town; Mrs. Roy Seeslar, Dayton; Clark and Thurman Stethem, both of Springfield; Mrs. Harold Hoover, Jamestown; and Ida Stethem, at home; three brothers, John Wil-lam and Moses, all of Highland County; two sisters, Mrs. Catherine Edgemon, Bowersville, and Mrs. To-thila Keesberg, Reesville, O. Nine grandchildren and one great-grand-child also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home at 2 o'clock Tues-day afternoon. The place of burial has not been decided upon.

AUTO DESTROYED AS GARAGE BURNS DOWN

An automobile was destroyed when the garage of Orville Shaw, Jackson Road, Clifton, burned to the ground, Sunday night.

Cause of the blaze is unknown.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw had been in Springfield during the day and re-turned home about 10 p. m. A pas-sengerby discovered the fire at 11 o'clock, but efforts to save the building were fruitless.

Day after day let-ters of gratitude from former suf-ferers who have been restored to health by Konjola come pouring in to the Konjola Man.

Among the latest to make a public statement about Konjola is Mrs. Bertha Thompson, R. F. D. No. 6, Xenia. Mrs. Thompson also offered her photograph for publica-tion. Her statement reads as fol-lows:

"To me there can be no other medicine like Konjola," said Mrs. Thompson. "It has worked such wonders in my case after every-thing else failed to help me that I cannot do other than feel that peo-ple in poor health should know about its exceptional merits.

"I had a complication of health troubles. It does not sound be-lievable when I say that at one time I had a disordered stomach, weak kidneys and rheumatism that brought on all their ugly and well-known symptoms. For five years my stomach caused intense suf-fering. Things I ate formed a heavy, leaden mass in the pit of my stomach. This caused belching spells that brought up a hot, sour liquid into my mouth, leaving an unpleasant taste. Gases formed and I became so short of breath that it was impossible to lie down. Fatigue of the hours was an an-ticipated symptom to contend with. Then my kidneys became so weak that at all hours of the night I was disturbed by bladder action. Severe headaches seemed a part of my life and to cap the climax I developed a stubborn case of rheumatism that made me feel like a solid mass of aches and pains.

"I did not know where to turn for relief and felt that I had prac-tically reached the end of my rope. At a time when my health was in the worst possible condi-tion I started to take Konjola and when I tell of the results I ob-tained it will sound unbelievable but every word is the truth. It did not take a great amount of Kon-jola or a long time for it to ac-complish all that I had tried so long and hard to obtain. Five years of stomach trouble is ended and I am eating whatever I want with-out suffering the least bit after-ward. My kidneys have been strengthened so that I can sleep through the entire night without having to rise a single time and my rest is sound and refreshing so that I am filled with energy and vigor the next day. Konjola surely and permanently ended the head-aches so that they have never re-turned. I am free of rheumatism and there is not an ache or pain anywhere in my body. So you see I have good reasons to praise Kon-jola."

The Konjola Man is at the Gal-laher Drug Store, 33 East Main Street, this city, where he is meet-ing the public every day and in-troducing and explaining the merits of this medicine. —Adv.

1. Herbert Hoover entered Stanford University in 1891. Engineering was his goal. 2. Baseball was his favorite college sport, and he proved an expert at the strategy of the game.

3. His first field work as an engineer apprentice was in the Ozark Mountains, during college vacation. 4. Working his way through college he met Miss Lou Henry, now Mrs. Hoover. She promised to wait.

The World And All

THIS MONEY QUESTION

Just what part does the money question play in making marriages happy or unhappy? This is a ques-tion that is often discussed but never settled. Judges who hear divorce cases probably will differ on it. I remember talking about it to Judge English, in Omaha, when I was covering the courts there for a newspaper. Judge English, who has since died, was an intelligent man, with a mind that weighed and analyzed the facts before it. He said:

"By far the largest part of the divorce cases that come before me are motivated by a natural unwill-ness to live with one another. Formerly we said they were mis-mated, and let it go at that. Now-ness of the two persons to live with one another. Formerly we said they were mismatched, and let it go at that. Nowadays they have ap-plied the term incompatibility to this state of affairs."

Harper's Magazine for Septem-ber contains an article entitled "Marriage and Money," by G. V. Hamilton and Kenneth MacGowan, in which the effect of money mat-ters upon marital affairs is dis-cussed in a manner which we have come to call scientific, though I don't know what scientific means in a case of this kind.

Some sort of a foundation fi-nanced an organized effort to find out something about the cases of unhappiness in marriage. This ar-ticle touches the one phase of mar-ital unhappiness relating to funds.

Married folk, half men and half women, were questioned, and their answers typed just as they gave them. Those questioned were of a rather high order of intelligence.

And understood that their names were not to be used in the records, but were willing to contribute their stories toward a better understand-ing of troubles in married life.

More women were made unhappy by small income than men. A good many women accused their hus-bands of extravagance, but few of the men thought their wives were extravagant. There was more un-happiness over money in the early years of married life than later. About one-fifth of the persons ex-aminated admitted that money af-fairs caused friction in their fam-ilies.

The examiner concluded that friction over money is not neces-sarily the cause of trouble between husband and wife, even when either or both of them so believe. Friction over money, he says, "is usu-ally a symptom of something else wrong with marriage."

After all, so much depends upon the two individuals. If there is mu-tual forbearance and patience and love, a good deal of money trouble can be borne, as is measles or tooth ache, without upsetting the mar-riage contract.

AID HOG MEN

Meetings are scheduled in a doz-en Ohio counties this month and next, held to determine whether leading swine-growers in those counties want to set up projects dealing with swine management and practical calculation to over-come production and marketing losses.

J. W. Wulcher of the ani-mal husbandry department and C. W. Hammans of the rural econ-omics department of the Ohio State University, will hold the meetings.

Hammans has made an exhaus-tive study of such losses, with spe-cial reference to crippled and dead hogs in market shipments. He has discovered that the estimated mar-ket value of crippled and dead hogs occurring in Ohio's principal terminal market shipments in 1927, was $137,503, not including losses on 1,200,000 head of hogs going direct to packers and to other Ohio markets.

Wulcher has prepared a state-ment of the causes of loss which are under control of the producer, and the remedies for them. This statement includes diseases and lack of minerals and supplement-ary proteins in rations. Before the meetings are held, information is collected in each county on lo-cation and cost of the materials needed to correct the average ra-tion. This information will be pre-sented and demonstrations in the preparation of the correct rations will be given.

When the specialists have out-lined these facts, it will be deter-mined by the producers them-selves whether they wish to em-bark on any of the projects of san-itation or ration adjustment, which will correct existing condi-tions.

The meetings are scheduled in Franklin, Shelby, Mercer, Cosho-ton, Highland, Champaign, Mad-ison, Clinton, Pickaway, Butler, Morrow and Hancock Counties. Similar meetings held last year resulted in the establishment of several swine-practice projects in different counties.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a sub-stitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, head-aches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to se-rious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and in-hibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is re-cognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the ir-ritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfac-tory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not re-lieved after taking according to direc-tions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by the highest medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

and a Snowy-White Washing

This is an actual fact—because you wash a bigger tubful of clothes at each operation—and quicker, too. The PRIMA has a wonderful tub capacity. The revolutionary agitator does its work more thoroughly and quicker than any other principle of washing machine agitation. Then right out of the machine into the most perfect wringer ever devised—the NEVER-CRUSH—which applies pressure evenly and just where it is needed.

With the new PRIMA and NEVER CRUSH wringer you can do your washing quickly, efficiently, without injury to your clothes and without having to spend hours sewing on buttons.

We want you to know all the OTHER features of the new PRIMA Electric Washer. Come in and let us show you—or, if you will just phone us, we will put a new PRIMA in your home on trial, without obligation.

WRONG MAN NAMED AS INDICTED HERE

Russell Sutton, Xenia, and not Russell Spahr, as previously announced, was indicted by the grand jury last week for carrying concealed weapons, authorities announced Monday. Sutton pleaded guilty to the indictment but sentence was deferred by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy until Tuesday.

THREE MOTORISTS ARRESTED IN NEW TRAFFIC CAMPAIGN

Three motorists, charged with violating the light and auto license law, were arrested Saturday night by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman, in the inauguration of a drive to curb this common violation of the law.

Those cited for appearance in Probate Court Monday were Ray Warren, colored, 44 Orchard St., J. C. Hawkins, colored, E. Market St., and Calvin Dwight, Enon, O.

Warren was taken into custody on the Springfield Pike, the arresting officers charging the coupe he was driving was equipped with only one headlight, no tail light and license issued for another car. Hawkins' car also had no tail light and bore wrong license tags. Dwight is accused of similar violations.

Warren and Hawkins were released on their own recognizance with orders to appear before Probate Judge S. C. Wright at 1 p. m. Monday. Dwight had been instructed to appear in court at 10 a. m. Monday but failed to show up.

NINE ARRESTED FOR LIQUOR OFFENSES AND OTHER CHARGES

Nine arrests for liquor offenses and non-payment of old fines marked police activities over the week end.

Ed Thompson, said to owe the city $75, James Banks and Martin Nooks, both colored, owing $77.40 and $20.40, respectively, were arrested and will be required to work out the balance due on old fines and costs if payment is not made.

Police Chief M. E. Graham warned that similar offenders will be cited for court appearance.

Clarence Baumaster and Clarence Kelly were each fined $10 and costs for intoxication. They were riding in a truck with a horse tied to the rear end of the vehicle. The horse fell down but the occupants paid no attention and dragged the animal for a distance along the street, police said.

John Montgomery, 73, Samuel Palmer and Roy Davis were also each fined $10 and costs Monday by Mayor Prugh for drunkenness. Charged with assaulting his wife and sister-in-law, James Smith was fined $10 and costs and given a suspended sentence of thirty days in the County Jail. Smith's wife swore out the affidavit.

Police also conducted a raid on an E. Main St. residence which was unproductive of sufficient evidence to prosecute the owner.

ENGILMAN ROBBERY CONFESSED HERE BY ARRESTED SUSPECT

Robbery of the Samuel Engilman store 23 W. Main St., September 30, in which $29 in cash and a large amount of wearing apparel of undetermined value was stolen, has been solved by police and county authorities with the arrest and confession of Leo Killeen, 23, painter, 611 W. Main St., Police Chief Graham announces.

Arrested by Patrolman George Robinson October 2, Killeen pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary and larceny and was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond by Mayor John W. Prugh. He is being held in default of bond.

Authorities declare that Killeen admitted connection with the robbery and implicated two companions who are the objects of a search as fugitives from justice. Killeen is alleged to have told police that the stolen property is in the possession of his two companions.

Killeen, however, could not be linked with two other robberies and an attempted robbery of East End grocery stores over the same week end, police asserted.

CLOTHING TAKEN AS FAN WATCHES GAME

Ulysses Mitchell, colored, student at Wilberforce University, reported to Sheriff Ohmer Tate Monday that thieves gained entrance to his room in Emory Hall at the university while the Wilberforce-Bluefield football game was in progress Saturday afternoon and stole practically all of his clothes.

The loot, he said, included one brown suit of clothes, a gray suit, a dark brown suit with pin stripes, one pair of cream colored trousers, one hat, one pair of tan, Oxford shoes, one pair of blue trousers, and one double-breasted, blue coat. A number of other students are reported to have suffered similar losses Saturday afternoon, the thefts all taking place while they were attending the football game. No other reports, however, were received at the sheriff's office.

FIVE DISCHARGED; CASES ARE IGNORED

Five persons bound over to the grand jury against whom no indictments were returned last week, were formally ordered discharged from custody Saturday by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy.

Those affected by the court order are John Clark, Robert Craig, Louis Duellman Gaston Newsome and William Baldwin. Craig and Craig were charged with two offenses of malicious destruction of property. Duellman was charged with shooting with intent to wound. Newsome with assault and Baldwin with theft.

AUTOISTS HURT WHEN MACHINE LEAVES ROAD AND HITS TREE

Mr. and Mrs. Sten Berquist, 6105 S. Mansfield Ave., Chicago, Ill., were painfully cut and bruised but their two babies in the rear seat miraculously escaped unhurt, although their touring car was wrecked, when it left the Washington and Jamestown Pike at the county line, four miles east of Jamestown, smashed through a fence and crashed into a tree at 7 a. m. Sunday.

The Berquist family left Chicago Saturday night on a motor trip to Chillicothe to visit Mrs. Berquist's parents, and it is the supposition that the driver fell asleep at the wheel.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Berquist were rendered unconscious. A passing motorist from Dayton removed them to the office of Dr. A. D. Ritenour, Jamestown, where an examination disclosed that Berquist received a deep cut in the forehead that required forty stitches to close. Broken glass caused the gash. His wife was lacerated about the forehead and was cut on the lip.

Their two babies, later extricated from the wrecked car, were found to be unhurt. John Baughn, former Greene County deputy sheriff, now marshal of Jamestown, investigated the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Martin, parents of Mrs. Berquist, were notified of the accident and took the accident victims to Chillicothe Sunday afternoon.

Each Drop Like a Whole Vegetable!

FRESH vegetables would give us all a state of health. If only we would eat enough of them. Few of us do. But here is a little secret about assisting the peristaltic action so vitally important to our health; there is enough in one spoon of plain syrup pepsin to fill a market basket!

Several factors affecting sound health are often ignored in the average person's daily diet. But add a little syrup pepsin now and then, and watch what happens! Your appetite improves; so does your digestion and elimination. Lots of folks who thought they were in perfect physical condition see a tremendous change after ten days with syrup pepsin.

When a scientific, vegetable corrective can put you in fine physical form so quickly, and keep the whole alimentary tract cleansed and sweet and free from need of powerful purges—It surely is worth trying! An actual test can be made in ten days. In this short space of time your stomach, and liver and bowels can be in shape to handle anything that's eaten.

Children thrive on almost any diet when pure pepsin syrup is given just occasionally to help assimilation, and make elimination thorough and regular. Elderly people have a far easier time, too, where this ideal combination of laxative herbs and pure pepsin is appreciated. Dr. Caldwell discovered this potent means of keeping bowels normally active in 1875. Now, you couldn't find a drugstore without this famous prescription all put up with directions enclosed.

TRUAX TO ATTEND DEDICATION OF FISH HATCHERY HERE SOON

State Representative R. D. Williamson announced Monday that the dedication of the Greene County state fish hatchery on the Springfield Pike, tentatively set for October 15, will probably be delayed for another week.

Representative Williamson, who will have charge of the formal opening of the hatchery, declared that the dedication exercises will not be elaborate.

Charles V. Traux, state director of agriculture, will probably deliver the principal address and D. O. Thompson, chief of the division of fish and game of Ohio, will also appear on the program, he said.

The formal opening will be delayed because the work of sodding the land adjacent to the new hatchery pools, which was recently awarded to John W. Weeks, Dayton, has not been completed. Gate posts leading to the hatchery are being put in by Sam McCleary, Roscoe.

Erection of a fence leading from the hatchery entrance is also incomplete, although the roadway from the Springfield Pike is finished.

The six pools will be stocked with small-mouthed bass and the state expects to ship about 400 of the fish to Xenia for the opening. State officials predict that the local hatchery, located on the site of the old Xenia waterworks plant, will be one of the finest in the state.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

DEEP WELLS.—Therefore with joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation.—Isa. 12:3.

GETTING OUT TO VOTE

Our newspapers, ministers and leaders of public opinion generally, are urging and exhorting the people to get out and vote. While all this publicity is doing good, a lot of organized effort has to be put into getting out the vote.

Formerly an enormous amount of hired solicitation was done. People who were supposed to command influence were employed to go around from house to house, or were supposed to meet their friends in popular loafing places. But since public sentiment is so against the free expenditure of money, the funds for this canvassing have dried up to some extent.

In former days, the political committees over a large part of the country made the effort to canvass every voter. But this can't be done now. It costs too much to reach all these people, and they are too independent to tell how they are going to vote.

A great deal has to be done today through organizations. The political committees can't card index every voter, but they can communicate with their friends who work through certain organizations, and induce them to get busy in these circles and rally their friends. So these circles of influence spread through the community.

CAPITAL BACKS AVIATION

The Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics is now being devoted exclusively to promotion of safety in flying. There no longer is need for the type of work the foundation has been carrying on. Educational work is unnecessary because the nation has become air conscious. Equipment loans and the general aid extended to aviation is in a position to help itself and because private capital now feels justified in entering the field of aeronautics.

The National Aviation corporation, capitalized at $3,500,000, is acting as a financing agency for airplane enterprises. Financially interested in this corporation are airplane manufacturers, transportation interests and bankers. Formation of this organization constitutes final and definite proof that commercial aviation has arrived and is here to stay.

The benefits that will accrue to the aviation industry from this interesting of large capital are patent. No business can succeed in this day and age unless it has available ample credit.

In any new enterprise there is comparatively an abnormal risk involved, but counter-balancing it in this case is the general belief that commercial aviation is destined to play an important part in the general transportation scheme. Of great significance is the fact that American financiers are pouring millions of their dollars into the industry.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

MILK

By drinking more milk we might all help one of the great industries of the country—the dairy industry. Experts point out that this industry has reached such a stage of development there is danger of serious over-production in the near future. And if dairymen paid more attention to "cow testing" and better methods there would be even more milk. In this country cows average 4,500 pounds of milk a year. In Denmark, where dairying is carried to a higher degree of efficiency, the average yield is almost double. It is 8,700 pounds a year.

PUBLICITY POISON

A young man in Illinois, arrested for stealing an auto, says he is the grandson of Jesse James, notorious bandit of the eighteen-seventies. Probably he isn't, but his story illustrates the lure that publicity has for the crooked-minded. Most criminals, once they are caught, love publicity. The very motive of some crime seems to be the hope of notoriety. If you love the limelight, look to yourself. Perhaps you have unsuspected criminal tendencies. The love of publicity is a bad sign.

INSTALLMENTS

Whatever bankers and others may think of installment buying it is certainly well established in American average life. More than one-half of all radio sales are on the deferred payment plan. This is according to a report from 3,000 dealers made public by the department of commerce. Installment buying has widened the market on all sides. It has helped everybody and it will help everybody—so long as you don't sign up to pay out more money than you take in.

BUDGETS

Even a man who has no head for business ought to have some kind of a budget for his personal expenditures. You will be more comfortable if you know where the money goes. In fact you are likely to find it more or less entertaining to keep books on yourself, at least long enough to make a test.

WELL, WELL

MIDDLE AGE

Middle age calls for all the intelligence, education, and experience you have accumulated, if any. It is in the early stages of middle age that one has to make up his mind whether he is going to be a failure or make some sort of success. Soon it will be too late. Middle age is the last chance. And it is in this period that more thought ought to be given to health. Today a man who has reached the age of 55 has a reasonable expectancy of living twenty-one and one-half years longer. A century ago a man who had reached the age of 55 had an expectancy of living twenty-one and two-tenths years longer. While the average length of life—under middle age—has increased by twenty years, the expectancy of the man of 50 has hardly changed at all. Watch out for middle age.

The Diary

NEW YORK.—The most popular question submitted to the writer of this column continues to be: "What shall I see in New York?"

This may sound foolish, but the Grand Central and Pennsylvania terminals are well worth a few hours apiece. Merely explore. Or Hudson terminals, tube station downtown, entirely underground.

And a bus ride through the Hudson river vehicular tunnel to Newark, N. J., which city, by the way, has one of the largest department stores in the metropolitan district, is worth while. If Newark were farther west, it would be looked upon as one of the biggest cities in America, which it is.

This is an unexciting presidential campaign in New York in spite of Al Smith's being a home-town boy, as it were. Mayoralty elections mean more to New York, which, while it takes national politics seriously enough, is more concerned with the matter of existence in such a huge municipality. And existence has much to do with the kind of a city administration that will keep light and heat bills down, together with subway fares and taxes in general.

I recall, during the original Hylan campaign, of hearing one of his orators at a street corner denounce the new-fangled Gary plan for schools introduced during the brilliant John Mitchell mayoralty regime. The speaker aroused more cheering than I've heard during this presidential campaign so far.

True enough, it is less majestic in New York to speculate on what Governor Smith will do if he's defeated for the presidency, but the assumption is that he will become chairman of the board of the General Trucking company, New York's largest. He occupied that position during a two-year interim when, because of a national landslide, he failed in a gubernatorial election.

Although Governor Smith never has studied for the bar, it is proposed, too, to acclaim him a constitutional lawyer. He is declared to have proved himself an expert on matters of the constitution.

Greatest play successes in New York, in a monetary way, are Ziegfeld's "Show Boat," White's "Scandals," Carroll's "Vanities," Hammerstein's "Good Boy," and "The New Moon," among the musicals, and "The Front Page," "The High Road," "The Big Fight" (soon to go on the road), "Strange Interlude," and "The Bachelor," (likewise soon to tour), "Machinal" and "Diamond Lil" among the non-musicals.

New York's third tallest building nears completion. It is another one built by the Chausins, brothers whose specialty has been the erection of theaters, with an immense hotel thrown in. The new structure, 50 story, a block east of and across the street from the main entrance of Grand Central terminal. The tallest remains the Woolworth, with the Metropolitan Life Insurance tower second.

Queer thing about "The Guild's O'Neill play: When last Strange Interlude," the Theater season, it was announced that a serious play, beginning at 5:30 in the evening (precluding any matinees) would be put on, old producers shook their heads and lost a round. Instead, no play is more difficult to see, even now. It has been a solid success from the beginning. It is considered an American classic. There is an intermission, by the way, for dinner, much on the plan of the festival operas in Germany.

Full Care for Your Hair

At this season of the year we must be particularly careful of the care we give our hair. The hair, you know, becomes sun-burned too, for if you have been imprudent about going out in the sun's strong rays, they probably have not only bleached, but dried away life and lustre. You must be careful now when your scalp is dry and the air less resilient than it normally is, not to shampoo too frequently. Once every ten days is plenty until your hair resumes its normal good health.

After an exposure, it is well to choose the shampoo particularly designed for dry hair. This helps to introduce again the oils which have been sapped out of the scalp. In shampooing, use warm water, a generous quantity of the shampoo, massaging well into the scalp with a rotary movement. Use a spray to remove all surplus soap in rinsing, and be sure not to let cold water touch your hair.

If the beach is still luring you in the early days of fall, be particularly careful not to permit the salt water to dry on your hair. Dry salt is excellent for the scalp, but the usual salt sea water, left to dry on the hair itself, tends to make your hair brittle and lustreless, and has the added inconvenience of being unpleasant to the touch.

Now particularly is the time for your egg shampoo. Break the yolk of two eggs into a glass. Add two ounces of shampoo to six ounces of water. Rinse thoroughly, using plenty of warm water and your spray.

It is a good thing, for several weeks following your vacation, to supplement the nightly brushing with a fed drop of hair tonic. Rub this either directly on the scalp, or moisten your hair brush with it, and be sure that the strokes begin at the very roots of the hair.

Just these few corrective measures will quickly restore the beauty which summer exposure has drained from your hair.

FACE SHOULD NOT WRINKLE IF THE REDUCTION IS SLOW

Reducing and Wrinkling
Mrs. H., 36 years old, has reduced 44 pounds and is down to 137—normal weight. She feels much better and her body looks very much better, but her face and neck are too thin and wrinkled since she reduced. What can she do?

It is not unusual while reducing to look drawn and a little older, but this should disappear after one is normal weight and goes back to the maintenance diet.

You did not state how long it took you to reduce the 44 pounds. Mrs. H. Did you reduce too rapidly? And did you take the exercises that tone up your muscles at the same time? At 36 years of age, reducing should not produce wrinkling.

Naturally, if you are beyond the ages of 40-45 or so, the skin is not very elastic, and if it has been stretched out enormously with fat, some wrinkles are going to remain.

Pineapple Salad—Four slices pineapple, small glass Maraschino cherries, small package cream cheese, head lettuce. Beat to creamy consistency, the cheese and juice from cherries. Garnish salad plate with lettuce leaves, place one slice of pineapple. Fluff a tablespoon of the whipped cream on center of slice, and place a cherry on top.

Italian Spaghetti en Casserole—Fry together until thoroughly brown, one pound ground meat, one-half pound finely-chopped onion and one-half green pepper.

Pour over this one package of spaghetti which has been cooked and drained. Add one small can tomato pulp and one small can chopped mushrooms which have been drained and well browned. Season with paprika, salt and pepper to taste. Cook slowly for one hour. Place in casserole and cover with grated cheese. Bake one-half hour in slow oven.

to show after the fat is gone, because the skin won't contract sufficiently. However, in these cases, if the reduction is slow and the face is given attention every day by stimulating it with cold water baths and pattings, with a glycerin solution or a little cold cream to soften and keep it softened, it should show very few lines if any.

The exercises which bring into play the neck muscles develop them and round out the neck and should prevent a formation of hollows.

I remember one case reported to me sometime ago of a woman who was greatly overweight. When she reduced to normal, she said that she looked so wrinkled in the face that she gained back 25 pounds, but then her figure wasn't so good and her figure did not please her, so she decided she would rather have her health and a few wrinkles, and so she reduced again—this time, however, much slower, and she reported the second time she did not wrinkle at all.

Summary:
1. The reduction before 40-45 years of age is seldom accompanied by wrinkling unless the reduction has taken place too rapidly.

2. After 40-45, the skin is not so elastic and wrinkles which normally would show without the padding of fat may show after the fat is removed, so you may have to choose which you prefer—the ill health and possible shortening of life, and the unattractive figure, or a few lines, better health and better appearance of body.

Note—In cases where there has been great excess weight, after 40 or 45, and after reducing, the skin lies in folds, a plastic surgeon can safely take out the excess. If you do not know the plastic surgeons in your city, ring up your County Medical Society and ask for a list. Do not go to a beauty specialist or advertising doctor.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—An eminent dry suggests—

Suppose we should elect, as president, a man whose system craves an occasional shot of liquor.

How would he continue to get the required stimulant?—in the White House. Would a bootlegger have to call there regularly?—to solicit orders and deliver the wet goods.

Think what a spectacle—a lawbreaker among the accredited purveyors of supplies at the executive mansion!

Yen, truly—no worse in principle, perhaps, than an outlaw ministering to the wants of any other household, but undoubtedly worse, as a national example.

However, it will not happen. Seemingly the eminent dry never has heard of "diplomatic booze."

A foreign diplomat in the United States is entitled to bring into the country all the liquid refreshments he deems necessary for his own use, for his friends' entertainment, for the use of all members of his official family, and for their friends' entertainments.

The diplomat is his sole judge of the amount he needs, for all these purposes.

Believe me, he makes no under-estimates.

There are fifty-four embassies and legations in Washington. This means considerable liquor—real stuff, too—the only supply in America that is possible to swear by, absolutely.

On his own premises a diplomat can serve drinks to his guests by the barrelful, if he likes—not only legally, but with just as much propriety as if he were in his home land, overseas.

In fact, so he is, according to international usage. Moreover if he chooses to send a bottleful to a friend, off his own premises, nobody can interfere, provided the latter is of the diplomatic retinue. "Immunity" clothes them all, like a garment, wherever they may travel.

Indeed, our diplomat can send out a truckload, and nobody can interfere with that, either—so long as it is under the diplomatic aegis.

Supposing one of our high government officials in Washington wants to restock his cellar—he is not necessarily dependent on the charity of some friendly diplomat.

What is to prevent him from slipping a check to that diplomat?—for one good reason or another.

And if such diplomat happens, in his next shipment from home, to receive a cellarful more of bottled commodities than he needs—and the overplus finds its way into the high government official's wine bin—whose business is it?

The whole transaction is as strictly according to Hoyle as international law can make it, up to the point where the hooch passes out of the foreign diplomat's hands.

Once turned over to the high government official and deposited in his cellar, if he should be raided, an awkward situation might develop—over the question of "possession." The American government official could hardly plead "diplomatic immunity." But who ever heard of a high government official's cellar being raided?

Oh, yes, Washington has bootleggers, but folk high in official life have no occasions to patronize them.

Not while "diplomatic immunity" survives. The eminent dry need feel no anxiety. Prohibition's deccencies will be observed in the national capital so long as that lasts.

Living and Loving

WIELD STRONG INFLUENCE

It is quite a relief to turn from the ubiquitous question of why the boy friend is not as attentive as of yore, and how can we win him back, etc., to the discussion of girl friends. After all friends of our own sex really wield an even greater influence over us than those of the other. How many girls have been led to adopt higher ideals by the love and admiration for another fine girl, or are tempted to do cheap and common things by seeking to imitate a coarse girl who has temporarily hypnotized them. And the influence of bad companions over young men is proverbial.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Last winter I began running around with a girl my age and we always had good times together. I thought an awful lot of this girl and would always do anything she asked me to. During this time I had been corresponding with a boy. He came home on a visit, and when he asked me for dates, instead of going with him, I turned him down to go some place with the g. f. He quit asking me and now we hardly speak. About two months ago I got tired of letting this girl give me dirty deals and quit speaking to her. I had been hearing some things she had been saying about me and they hurt my feelings an awful lot. A week or so ago she came down after me to go on a date, after she had tried to get two or three other girls, and I went. Since then we speak, but that is all. What should I do in a case like this, for I still think a lot of her and would do anything to please her?

"Do you think it is wrong for a girl to smoke? I look at it this way: If people do not talk about boys smoking, why should they talk about girls?"

"DISCOURAGED."

If this girl is such a poor friend that she accepts your companionship and then talks about you behind your back, I certainly think you should drop her and get another girl friend who will play fair. Isn't it queer what a fascination and influence some people seem to have over us when we really don't approve of them at all or like their ways? As to smoking, there is nothing wrong about either sex doing it, and the reason girls and boys talk about it is that it is now for them to smoke—at least in this country. It is merely a foolish habit. There is some talk about it being injurious to the more delicate organism of women than to the coarser fiber of men, but I'm inclined to think that is a tough. It is amusing to hear men who have smoked all their lives rave about women doing it. Smoking is said to be bad for people generally, irrespective of sex, and is classed among the bad habits, but you see old, old men, and women too, puffing contentedly on an old corn-cob pipe and you wonder, don't you, just how it has injured them.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I have been been going with a man who is married and has three children. He has been away from his wife four years and she wants him to come to her and the wife divorce him. He went to get it and now she says she will not divorce him. He says he does not love her and he writes to me every day to come to him. Do you think it is right for me to go to him and take him away from his wife and children? I left my husband and expecting to get him, and I love him better than anything on earth and he said he did me. Please give me your advice.

"BROKEN HEARTED"

L. L.

No, you cannot go to him as long as he is not divorced, and you cannot take him away from his children. They need him if his wife does not. All you can do is to hide your time to see which love will win. In any event the children must be taken care of.

A Turk says he is 157 years old. Maybe he can remember "way back when" somebody else besides Bobby Jones won golf tournaments.

"DROP THAT FISH, YOUNG BIRD," COMMANDED HE

just as well make up your mind to let me have that one. If you don't give it to me willingly, I shall take it by force. Come, now! I flurried up and drop it! I am not fooling! I mean every word I say."

"Yes, he means every word he says," cried the Gulls in chorus, and in great anxiety lest the Skua hurt one of the flock. "Give it up, brother, as he says, you can find plenty more fish in the sea where that came from."

"But the Gull still hung onto the fish, and Skua, furious, made straight for him. Cormorant heard the poor Gull moan and caught a faint, stuttering whisper.

"I can't drop it. I wish I could! Skua will kill me, and all for an old fish for which I don't care a feather!"

"Then Cormorant realized that Gull was paralyzed with fright, and he called:

"Drop it, Gull! Drop it! Drop it!"

"Then Cormorant realized that Gull was paralyzed with fright, and he called:

"Drop it, Gull! Drop it! Drop it!"

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

DEEP WELLS.—Therefore with joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation.—Isa. 12:3.

GETTING OUT TO VOTE

Our newspapers, ministers and leaders of public opinion generally, are urging and exhorting the people to get out and vote. While all this publicity is doing good, a lot of organized effort has to be put into getting out the vote.

Formerly an enormous amount of hired solicitation was done. People who were supposed to command influence were employed to go around from house to house, or were supposed to meet their friends in popular loafing places. But since public sentiment is so against the free expenditure of money, the funds for this canvassing have dried up to some extent.

In former days, the political committees over a large part of the country made the effort to canvass every voter. But this can't be done now. It costs too much to reach all these people, and they are too independent to tell how they are going to vote.

A great deal has to be done today through organizations. The political committees can't card index every voter, but they can communicate with their friends who work through certain organizations, and induce them to get busy in these circles and rally their friends. So these circles of influence spread through the community.

CAPITAL BACKS AVIATION

The Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics is now being devoted exclusively to promotion of safety in flying. There no longer is need for the type of work the foundation has been carrying on. Educational work is unnecessary because the nation has become air conscious. Equipment loans and the general aid extended to aviation is in a position to help itself and because private capital now feels justified in entering the field of aeronautics.

The National Aviation corporation, capitalized at $3,500,000, is acting as a financing agency for airplane enterprises. Financially interested in this corporation are airplane manufacturers, transportation interests and bankers. Formation of this organization constitutes final and definite proof that commercial aviation has arrived and is here to stay.

The benefits that will accrue to the aviation industry from this interesting of large capital are patent. No business can succeed in this day and age unless it has available ample credit.

In any new enterprise there is comparatively an abnormal risk involved, but counter-balancing it in this case is the general belief that commercial aviation is destined to play an important part in the general transportation scheme. Of great significance is the fact that American financiers are pouring millions of their dollars into the industry.

MILK

By drinking more milk we might all help one of the great industries of the country—the dairy industry. Experts point out that this industry has reached such a stage of development there is danger of serious over-production in the near future. And if dairymen paid more attention to "cow testing" and better methods there would be even more milk. In this country cows average 4,500 pounds of milk a year. In Denmark, where dairying is carried to a higher degree of efficiency, the average yield is almost double. It is 8,700 pounds a year.

PUBLICITY POISON

A young man in Illinois, arrested for stealing an auto, says he is the grandson of Jesse James, notorious bandit of the eighteenth century. Probably he isn't, but his story illustrates the lure that publicity has for the crooked-minded. Most criminals, once they are caught, love publicity. The very motive of some crime seems to be the hope of notoriety. If you love the limelight, look to yourself. Perhaps you have unsuspected criminal tendencies. The love of publicity is a bad sign.

INSTALLMENTS

Whatever bankers and others may think of installment buying it is certainly well established in American average life. More than one-half of all radio sales are on the deferred payment plan. This is according to a report from 3,000 dealers made public by the department of commerce. Installment buying has widened the market on all sides. It has helped everybody and it will help everybody—so long as you don't sign up to pay out more money than you take in.

BUDGETS

Even a man who has no head for business ought to have some kind of a budget for his personal expenditures. You will be more comfortable if you know where the money goes. In fact you are likely to find it more or less entertaining to keep books on yourself, at least long enough to make a test.

WELL, WELL

It is in the early stages of middle age that one has to make up his mind whether he is going to be a failure or make some sort of success. Soon it will be too late. Middle age is the last chance. Presumably there were still more who were unwilling to entrust the care of the front lawn to somebody else. And there must be even more who dare not close up their big homes full of expensive rugs and silverware which might attract burglars. The point is that nearly everybody is hampered by possessions. We all own too many things over and above our actual needs. Yet on every hand we are besieged to buy more. We are constantly the victims of capable and highly organized salesmanship.

Peter's Adventure

SKUA, THE ROBBER

"AT CORMORANT'S WARNING, amid a great squawking and flapping of wings, the Gulls scattered in every direction. Some flew low and some flew high, and one frightened fellow spread himself out flat upon the water.

"Perhaps for just a moment this fellow imagined he was a baby gull upon the shore, and hiding on the sand just as he used to do when something told him that an enemy was near.

"The poor chap had a fish in his mouth that he was too scared to swallow and the bright eye of Skua caught sight of its shinning body at once and down he pounced, rocking his great body from side to side and threatening the Gull with his sharp beak.

"Drop that fish, young bird," commanded he. "I'll poke you in the ribs if you try to fly away, and certainly you can't hide from me in that billow. There are plenty more fish in the sea for you yet to catch and you might have also an article on the Atonic Abdominal Wall which outlines some splendid exercises every one should take, unless there is some contraindication to exercises.

Mrs. M.—The onset of the menses differs with different girls. In the northern climates it is not unusual for the girl to be 16 years old before they appear. After the first time, there may elapse several months before they come again and then they may be irregular for awhile.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—An eminent dry suggests—

Suppose we should elect, as president, a man whose system craves an occasional shot of liquor.

How would he continue to get the required stimulant?—in the White House. Would a bootlegger have to call there regularly?—to solicit orders and deliver the wet goods.

Think what a spectacle!—a lawbreaker among the accredited purveyors of supplies at the executive mansion!

Yea, truly—no worse in principle, perhaps, than an outlaw ministering to the wants of any other household, but undoubtedly worse, as a national example.

However, it will not happen. Seemingly the eminent dry never has heard of "diplomatic booze."

A foreign diplomat in the United States is entitled to bring into the country all the food and refreshments he deems necessary, for his own use, for his friends' entertainment, for the use of all members of his official family, and for their friends' entertainments.

The diplomat is his sole judge of the amount he needs, for all these purposes.

Believe me, he makes no under-estimates.

There are fifty-four embassies and legations in Washington. This means considerable liquor—real stuff, too—the only supply in America that is possible to swear by, absolutely.

On his own premises a diplomat can serve drinks to his guests by the barrelful, if he likes—not only legally, but with just as much propriety as if he were in his home land, overseas.

In fact, so he is, according to international usage. Moreover if he chooses to send a bottleful to a friend, off his own premises, nobody can interfere, provided the latter is of the diplomatic retinue. "Immunity" clothes them all, like a garment, wherever they may travel.

Indeed, our diplomat can send out a truckload and nobody can interfere with that, either so long as it is under the diplomatic aegis.

Supposing one of our high government officials in Washington wants to restock his cellar—he is not necessarily dependent on the charity of some friendly diplomat.

What is to prevent him from slipping a check to that diplomat—for one good reason or another.

And if such diplomat happens, in his next shipment from home, to receive a cellarful more of bottled commodities than he needs—and the overplus finds its way into the high government official's wine bin—whose business is it?

The whole transaction is as strictly according to Hoyle as international law can make it, up to the point where the hooch passes out of the foreign diplomat's hands.

Once turned over to the high government official and deposited in his cellar, if he should be raided, an awkward situation might develop—over the question of "possession." The American government official could hardly plead "diplomatic immunity."

But who ever heard of a high government official's cellar being raided?

Oh, yes, Washington has bootleggers, but folk high in official life have no occasions to patronize them.

Not while "diplomatic immunity" survives.

The eminent dry need feel no anxiety of prohibition's denecies will be observed in the national capital so long as that lasts.

Living and Loving

CHUMS

WILD STRONG INFLUENCE

It is quite a relief to turn from the ubiquitous question of why the boy friend is not so attentive as of yore, and how can we win him back, etc., to the discussion of girl friends. After all friends of our own sex really wield an even greater influence over us than those of the other sex. Many girls have been led to adopt higher ideals by the love and admiration for another fine girl, or are tempted to do cheap and common things by a seeking to imitate a coarse girl who has temporarily hypnotized them. And the influence of bad companions over young men is proverbial.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Last winter I began running around with a girl my age and we always had good times together. I thought an awful lot of this girl and would always do anything she asked me to. During this time I had been corresponding with a boy. He came home on a visit, and when he asked me for dates, instead of going with him, I turned him down to go some place with the g. f. He quit asking me and now we hardly speak. About two months ago I got tired of letting this girl give me dirty deals and quit speaking to her. I had been hearing some things she had been saying about me and they hurt my feelings an awful lot. A week or so ago she came down after me to go on a date, after she had tried to get two or three other girls, and I went. Since then we speak, but that is all. What should I do in a case like this, for I still think a lot of her and would do anything to please her?

"Do you think it is wrong for a girl to smoke? I look at it this way: If people do not talk about boys smoking, why should they talk about girls?"

"DISCOURAGED."

If this girl is such a poor friend that she accepts your companionship and then talks about you behind your back, I certainly think you should drop her and get another girl friend who will play fair. Isn't it queer what a fascination and influence some people seem to have over us when we really don't approve of them at all or like their ways? As to smoking, there is nothing wrong about either sex doing it, and the reason girls are more talked about is that it is new for them to smoke—at least in this country. There is some talk about it being injurious to the more delicate organism of women than to the coarser fiber of men, but I'm inclined to think that is tosh. It is amusing to hear men who have smoked all their lives rave about women doing it. Smoking is said to be bad for people generally, irrespective of sex, and is classed among the bad habits, but you see old, old men, and women too, puffing contentedly on an old corncob pipe and you wonder, don't you, just how it has injured them.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I have been going with a man who is married and has three children. He has been away from his wife four years and she wrote him to come to her and she would divorce him. He went to get it and now she says she will not divorce him. He says he does not love her and he writes to me every day to come to him. Do you think it is right for me to go to him and take him away from his wife and children? I left my husband expecting to get him, and I love him better than anything on earth and he said he did me. Please give me your advice."

"BROKEN HEARTED"

No, you cannot go to him as long as he is not divorced, and you cannot take him away from his children. They need him if his wife does not. All you can do is to bide your time to see which love will win. In any event the children must be taken care of.

A Turk says he is 157 years old. Maybe he can remember "way back when" somebody else besides Bobbie Jones won golf tournaments.

"DROP THAT FISH, YOUNG BIRD," COMMANDED HE

just as well make up your mind to let me have that one. If you don't give it to me willingly, I shall take it by force. Come, now! Hurry up and drop it! I am not fooling! I mean every word I say."

"Yes, he means every word he says," cried the Gulls in chorus, and in great anxiety lest the Skua hurt one of their flock, "Give it up brother, as he says, you can find plenty more fish in the sea where that came from."

"But the Gull still hung onto the fish, and Skua, furious, made straight for him. Cormorant heard the poor Gull moan and caught a faint, stuttering whisper.

"I can't drop it. I wish I could! Skua will kill me, and all for an old fish for which I don't care a feather!"

"Then Cormorant realized that Gull was paralyzed with fright and he called:

Safety Enables Bluefield To Beat Wilberforce

BREAK COMES LATE IN GAME SATURDAY
WHILE TIE LOOMED

Graves' Team Beaten By Smallest Margin Possible.

Scoring a safety in the last six minutes of play, Bluefield Institute, Bluefield, W. Va., 1927 national colored collegiate football champions, emerged victorious 2 to 0 in a thrilling inter-sectional battle with the Wilberforce University gridiron muskies Saturday afternoon at Wilberforce.

Bluefield had practically the same array of veterans that Wilberforce held to a scoreless tie a year ago.

The winning points came like a bolt out of a clear sky. Taking the offensive in the last quarter with the ball on the Wilberforce twenty-third yard line, a careless pass from center eluded Quarterback Lucas, the ball rolling back of his own goal line, where Lucas fell on it for a safety.

Frequent exchanges of punts enlivened the opening quarter. Wilberforce worked the ball to the visitors' twenty-third yard line as a result of some brilliant pieces of end running by Lucas and Ward, and Ward's attempted place kick from that point was low.

As the quarter ended Buford circled end for a twenty-seven yard gain, the longest run of the period, to place the ball on the Wilberforce twenty-five. Three line backs made it first down but the Wilberforce line then braced and held for downs, Ward subsequently kicking out of danger.

Late in the second period a series of line plays, end runs and a forward pass, Ward to Terrell, for eleven yards, advanced the ball to the Bluefield nineteen-yard-line, but the half ended and a possible scoring chance went glimmering.

Soon after the second half opened Wilberforce was again in a position to score when Nixon recovered a fumble on the visitors' twenty. This time Bluefield's line was like a stone wall and Ward's second attempted place kick was wide of the uprights.

Late in the final quarter Bluefield marched to the Wilberforce twenty-eight line only to lose the ball on downs. At this point, with a scoreless tie apparently unbreakable, the break came that gave Bluefield an unearned victory.

Moore lost five yards and then came the poor pass from center that bounded over the goal line, Lucas falling on the ball.

After an exchange of punts, Wilberforce opened the customary desperate aerial attack in hopes of a last-minute touchdown but it was too late.

Lucas, who starred in basketball and football, particularly the former sport, at Eaton High School for several years, proved the best ground runner for the "Force" time and again turning the ends for substantial gains. Nixon at center also played a good defensive game.

Cain, Bluefield snapper-back, was a clever field general, while Graves was his team's best bet for making yardage. Bluefield has a smooth-working, clever team—if anything smoother and cleverer than last year. Its plays were also effective.

Bluefield is coached by Jefferson who was football mentor at Wilberforce in 1923-24.

Wilberforce is scheduled to journey to St. Louis, Mo., for another inter-sectional struggle with Lincoln University next Saturday.

Safety Enables Bluefield To Beat Wilberforce 12 TO 0

BREAK COMES LATE IN GAME SATURDAY WHILE TIE LOOMED

Graves' Team Beaten By Smallest Margin Possible.

Scoring a safety in the last six minutes of play, Bluefield Institute, Bluefield, W. Va., 1927 national colored collegiate football champions, emerged victorious 12 to 0 in a thrilling inter-sectional battle with the Wilberforce University gridiron tussles Saturday afternoon at Wilberforce.

Bluefield had practically the same array of veterans that Wilberforce held to a scoreless tie a year ago.

The winning points came like a bolt out of a clear sky. Taking the offensive in the last quarter with the ball on the Wilberforce twenty-three-yard line, a careless pass from center eluded Quarterback Lucas, the ball rolling back to his own goal line, where Lucas fell on it for a safety.

Frequent exchanges of punts enlivened the opening quarter. Wilberforce worked the ball to the visitors' twenty-three-yard line as a result of some brilliant pieces of end running by Lucas and Ward, and Ward's attempted place kick from that point was low.

As the quarter ended Buford circled end for a twenty-seven-yard gain, the longest run of the period, to place the ball on the Wilberforce twenty-five. Three line bucks made it first down but the Wilberforce line then braced and held for downs. Ward subsequently kicking out of danger.

Late in the second period a series of line plays, end runs and a forward pass, Ward to Terrell, for eleven yards, advanced the ball to the Bluefield nineteen-yard line, but the half ended and a possible scoring chance went glimmering.

Soon after the second half opened Wilberforce was again in a position to score when Nixon recovered a fumble on the visitors' twenty. This time Bluefield's line was like a stone wall and Ward's second attempted place kick was wide of the uprights.

Late in the final quarter Bluefield marched to the Wilberforce twenty-eight line only to lose the ball on downs. At this point, with a scoreless tie apparently inevitable, the break came that gave Bluefield an unearned victory.

Moore lost five yards and then came the poor pass from center that bounded over the goal line, Lucas falling on the ball.

After an exchange of punts, Wilberforce opened the customary desperate aerial attack in hopes of a last-minute touchdown but it was too late.

Lucas, who starred in basketball and football, particularly the former sport, at Eaton High School for several years, proved the best ground gainer for the "Force" time and again turning the ends for substantial gains. Nixon at center also played a good defensive game.

Cain, Bluefield snapper-back, was a clever field general, while Graves was his team's best for making yards. Bluefield has a smooth-working, clever team—if anything smoother and cleverer than last year. Its plays were also deceptive.

Bluefield is coached by Jefferson who was football mentor at Wilberforce in 1923-24.

Wilberforce is scheduled to journey to St. Louis, Mo., for a non-inter-sectional struggle with Lincoln University next Saturday.

LANG CHEVROLETS BOW TO VISITORS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF MISPLAYS TO CAPTURE VICTORY

Xenians Show Strongest Attack But Falter At Critical Moments; Blocked Punt And Fumble Both Costly

APITALIZING on misplays, the South Park Shamrock semi-pro football eleven of Dayton upset the Xenia Lang Chevrolet 12 to 0 Sunday afternoon at Cincinnati Ave. Park.

The scoring was confined to the second and fourth periods and the touchdowns came as a result of a blocked kick in one instance and a recovered fumble in the other.

The first marker came shortly after the second quarter began when Seall was downed on his own three-yard line after receiving a punt and Smith tried to kick out of danger, Spang, substitute guard, broke through the line, blocked the kick and fell on the ball behind the goal line. Wassenich failed to add the extra point.

In the final quarter, Warmon scooped up a fumbled ball in midfield and raced half the length of the field for another score. Wassenich once more failed to kick goal.

Statistics of the contest show that Langs actually outplayed the Shamrocks by a considerable margin, registering eight first downs to three for the Dayton eleven, but loose handling of the ball threw away numerous scoring chances.

Wassenich kicked off to Smith to start the game and the Lang captain returned the ball to his own twenty-nine. Spahr picked up a yard, a pass was incomplete and Smith punted to Turvene, who ran the ball back to midfield.

Friend galloped for ten yards and first down. Wassenich fumbled but recovered, then made two yards and Turvene kicked to Chittty. An attempted forward pass by Smith was intercepted by Wassenich. Ketter and Friend made a first down on a criss-cross play around right end. Turvene gained twelve yards and first down.

Friend gained two yards off tackle but fumbled on the play. Davis recovering the ball for Langs. Smith immediately kicked out of danger to Turvene as the quarter ended.

Starting the second period, Wassenich punted right back to Seall, who was tackled on his own three-yard line. Smith went back to punt but the Lang line crumbled and Spang, breaking through, blocked the kick and then fell on the ball for a touchdown. Try for goal failed.

Wassenich kicked off to Spahr, who fumbled but Zell snatched up the ball and was downed on his own twenty. Seall made two and Smith crashed through for a first down. Unable to gain, Smith punted. The teams exchanged kicks as the half ended.

Langs kicked off to start the third period. Two Shamrock passers were grounded and Wassenich kicked to Chittty. Line bucks by Seall and Smith resulted in a first down. Seall added five at end. Smith shot off tackle for three. Zell contributed one, but Smith was stopped and the ball changed hands.

Friend fumbled momentarily and Perrine tossed him for a twelve-yard loss. Zell intercepted Wassenich's pass and was downed on the nineteen-yard mark. Zell, Seall and Smith made it first down. With eight yards to go for a score, Zell fumbled at the critical moment and Xenia's best scoring chance was gone. Both teams used forward passes frequently the remainder of the period but they were all ineffectual.

In the fourth quarter, Langs had the ball on the twenty-five. Smith grabbed a pass from Seall, netting eleven yards. Seall circled end for eight and Chittty added three for first down. Smith and Chittty made another first down in two stabs at the line, then Seall fumbled and Perrine, alert for any break, picked up the ball and centered down the field for a touchdown. The try for point failed.

After receiving the kickoff, Langs unleashed a futile forward passing attack that culminated in loss of the ball on downs as the game ended.

Baseball weather again prevailed Sunday and the players waited under the piercing rays of the sun. Neither team as a result exhibited

Troop No. 45, Boy Scouts of America, was well represented at the Wittenberg-Ohio State football game at Columbus Saturday afternoon. Fifteen members of the troop making the trip in addition to more than 500 Scouts from the Columbus Area Council, of which Greene County is a part.

The troop made the trip to Columbus in a truck and was in charge of Scoutmaster Ernest Blackburn and C. Mella, troop committee.

The following Scouts were in the troop party: Foley, E. Schmidt, M. Hyman, L. Rachford, J. Ralls, A. Halstead, C. Whitacre, R. Suesse, J. Custer, E. Shurt, E. Flate, M. Cole, C. Smith, D. Finlay and E. Hyman.

TROY-SIDNEY TIE

In the inaugural game in the Miami Valley High School League this season, the Troy and Sidney High School football eleven played to a scoreless tie on the Sidney gridiron Saturday afternoon.

Since it was Sidney's homecoming game, a crowd of more than 1,500 fans turned out to see the contest. Troy had marched to the Sidney six-yard line when the whistle ended the game. Fregin, tackle, starred for Troy while the offensive work of Collins, Sidney fullback, was a feature.

Two Miami Valley League games are scheduled for this week, Greenville playing at Troy and Piqua appearing at Xenia Saturday.

RESERVES WIN EASY VICTORY OVER ALL STARS

Local Hitters Solve Offerings Of Dayton Hurler

Opening the final two-game series of the season with the Dayton All-Stars, a colored team, the Reserves met with little opposition and romped to an easy 14 to 2 victory Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

Myers, Dayton Marco hurler, who should have beaten the Reserves 1 to 0 last Sunday, had nothing with which to puzzle the local batters this time and was knocked out of the box in less than three innings.

McKinney, who succeeded him, was also abused to some extent in three of the six rounds he worked.

Reserves amassed fourteen hits, including a double, four triples and a home run. Jule Tankeman was the hitting star with four bingles, including a triple, in five times at bat. His brother, Sam, hit for the circuit with the bases empty in the first and later made a single. Johnson had a pair of triples to show for his first two times at bat, and then fanned twice. Reserves stole five bases.

The local nine, in registering its twenty-third victory of the season, scored four runs in each of the first two innings, and followed up with three tallies in the fourth, two in the seventh and another in the eighth.

Schlipf pitched the first five innings for the Reserves, allowing two hits and no runs. Fulweiler, who finished the game on the mound, was touched for three hits and a pair of runs in the ninth, mere consolation tallies however.

Between them, the Reserve hurlers allowed only seven hits. Myers and R. Long made two hits apiece for the visitors.

Seven Dayton errors also contributed to the Reserve scoring.

ANTIOCH'S AERIAL GAME SUCCESSFUL OVER CEDARVILLE

Victory Is First In Three Years For Yellow Springs

A successful forward passing attack carried the Antioch College Division "A" football eleven to a 31 to 6 victory over Cedarville College, the first time Antioch has defeated the "Yellow-Jackets" on the gridiron in three years. Saturday afternoon at Yellow Springs.

The victory was also Antioch's first in three starts this season. The Division "B" team will play out the remainder of the schedule, calling for three games, two of which are at home.

Antioch scored two touchdowns in the first period and one in each of the remaining three quarters.

Opening with a fast aerial game, Antioch scored twice in the first ten minutes. John Bryce, Toledo, carrying the ball, Larry Seaman, Mishawaka, Wis., registered the third marker after a thirty-yard run, and Captain Burr, of Washington, after a brilliant run of seventy yards. Clark Lovrien, of Humboldt, Ia., tallied the final marker.

Cedarville's lone score came late in the second period when Rutan scooped up an Antioch fumble on the Antioch twenty-yard line, and rushed across the goal line.

Antioch's next football game is not until October 27, when the Wilmington College "Green Tornado" appears at Yellow Springs to play the Division "B" eleven. Score by quarters:

Cedarville 0 6 0 0-6

DAYTON KISER HIGH DEFEATS OSBORN IN CONTEST SATURDAY

Greene Countians Subdued After Early Score

After a pretentious start in which it scored a touchdown on the first play of the game Bath Twp. High School's football team was smothered by Kiser High School 39 to 6 Saturday afternoon at Dayton.

Taking the opposition unawares, Osborn registered its lone marker on the first play after the opening kickoff when McCormick, right end, snagged a pass from Pinnell and scampered fifty-two yards for a touchdown. The try for point failed.

Bath then began a defensive game, and the first period ended with the teams tied 6 to 6. Kiser's offense began to function in the second quarter. Dayton recorded three touchdowns in the second period, one in the third and two in the fourth.

The deadly punting of Halfback Groner, of Bath, unduly prevented Kiser from running up a larger score. His boots sometimes traveled fifty yards. Lineups and summary:

FAIRES WINS PRESIDENT'S CUP; IS NEW COUNTRY CLUB CHAMPION

Vern L. Faires, a "dark horse" entrant, is the 1928 golf champion at the Xenia Country Club.

Proving his superiority to a field of sixteen golfers, Faires won the annual President's Cup golf tournament of the club Sunday when he overcame A. H. Finlay, the favorite, in the final round of thirty-six scheduled holes, by the wide margin of 6 up and 5 to play.

The winner of this yearly tournament is recognized as the club's champion golfer for the year.

Faires succeeded to the throne abdicated by Dr. Eber Reynolds, who was eliminated in one of the early rounds.

Faires advanced to the finals last Wednesday at the expense of Charles Fisher, whom he defeated in an eighteen-hole semi-final round match, five up and four to play.

YAQUI JOE BOOKED TO WRESTLE HERE; TOM PAPPAS PLANS CARD

Tom Pappas, former Xenia wrestler, plans to revive the wrestling game in Xenia after a lapse of several years.

Pappas is now connected with the Commonwealth Athletic Club along with Al Haft, Columbus, and J. J. "Dude" Jacobs, Springfield, and has branched out into the promoting end of the sport.

Pappas hopes to put on a mat show at City Hall Theater next week, the date to be definitely announced later. The program would include three first-class bouts.

For the feature wrestling match of the evening, Pappas will bring to Xenia Yaqui Joe, of Sonora, Mexico, Mexican-Indian wrestler, who defeated Jack Reynolds, welterweight wrestling champion of the world in the feature bout of the Commonwealth A. C. mat show at Memorial Hall, Springfield, last Thursday night.

The crown did not change hands, however, as the Mexican wrestler, regarded as one of the most talented matmen who ever stepped between the ropes, won three pounds over the welterweight limit.

Yaqui Joe took the second and third falls from the champion after dropping the first one. As a result of the victory, Yaqui Joe is in line for possible headline matches at Madison Square Garden in New York in place of Reynolds, who has featured there.

Yaqui Joe will be matched in Xenia against Charlie Grape, Huntington, W. Va., wrestler, who, it is conceded, would give him a good tussle. George Gatsco is carded for one of the two preliminary matches here.

Xenia has not had wrestling matches since Xenia Aerie, No. 1689, Fraternal Order of Eagles, staged weekly shows here several years ago.

DORMITORY AT BRICK PLANT DESTROYED; CHECK NOT COMPLETE

County, serving one to seven years for larceny.

Lester Bird, 29, of Marion County, serving three to five years for larceny.

John Pablock, 23, of Cuyahoga County, serving three to fifteen years for assault in robbery.

Those reported missing include: Horner, Duncan, Webster, Payung, Carnes, Raybuck, Cooper, Whiting, Hayes, Pickering, Broncher, Jelke, Kearns, Kochowski, Jordan, Snider, Stultz, Cramer, Hill and Cole.

Twenty-one of the 288 prisoners trapped in the dormitory were still missing at 9:30 a. m., brick plant officials announced after checking the records for hours in an attempt to determine the number burned to death or killed in the rush to escape the blaze.

Some of the twenty-one were known to be dead—victims of the blaze itself or trampled to death during the mad rush to escape from the burning building.

As prison officials and citizens from Junction City and vicinity searched the smoldering ruins of the dormitory, they found several bodies burned beyond recognition. Several arms and legs also were found.

It was possible, Blosser said, that one or two of the twenty might have escaped from the stockade. That could not be determined, however, until the records here could be checked with those in the Columbus office.

Later, seven more men, none of them believed seriously burned, were brought to the hospital.

OSCAR SMITH DIES SUNDAY EVENING

Oscar Smith, 65, former Xenian, died at the Greene County Infirmary, where he has been a patient for some time, Sunday evening at 5:45 o'clock. Death followed a hemorrhage, but Mr. Smith had been in failing health some time.

He resided in Xenia a number of years and lived on W. Second St., before entering the infirmary. He is survived by three sisters.

The remains were taken in charge by R. M. Need, funeral director. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Need parlors with burial in Woodland Cemetery.

Emmy, who opened the envelope and Mrs. Milburn waited for her news, sitting on the very edge of the red-cushioned rocker.

"It's from Perry. He's all right," said Emmy, and she read the message aloud:

"Lovey and I were married at Monroe, Michigan, last night. Always promised you gray silk dress and violets for my wedding but this one happened rather suddenly. Please pack up my things. Lovey and I will be around for them and for your blessing some time this afternoon. We are at her house with his bride."

"That's all right," said Emmy, "but I never got much out of 'em. I hope Perry does better than I did." It was a great joke at times.

At his bride.

She was as pretty as a picture in a pearl-gray outfit covered by a coat of panther skin, and she clung to Perry's arm in a helpless, appealing little way.

"Why, Lovey, you look just like a bride!" Emmy cried when she heard their car in the street and ran out to welcome them.

"Don't! I thought this dress and hat a week ago when I made up my mind to marry Perry," she lifted. "He kept swearing that he wouldn't marry me until he was making five thousand a year and I kept swearing that he just would! Who won?"

She stepped in front of her tall young husband and looked at his straight nose. "Who won, Periwinkle?" she cried into his face.

"Who won, I'd like to know! Who did?"

"You did."

"Course I did! Lovey always gets her way—when her mind's made up!" She stood on her toes and kissed him as they came into the hall. "You'll find that out if you don't know it now. Merry Perry Periwinkle. I'm going to lead you all over by your lovely great big nose!" She tweaked it again to show him that she meant business.

Perry grinned down at her sheepishly. He was plainly enraptured by her baby-talk and her cunning little ways.

The Little Yellow House
By BEATRICE BURTON -- RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. © 1928

READ THIS FIRST:
Over the poverty and discontent in the little yellow house broods a mother's love, which transmutes the dingy home to a palace of love and beauty. Emmy, the only daughter, is disappointed of her wealthy relatives, eager to leave. There is quiet, hard-working Robb, who loves her, but who represents to her only a moneyless, boring future. She decides to get away from dingy Flower Street and live in her own home, where she can entertain as she likes. Mrs. Milburn, after a talk with her husband, decides to ask Uncle Bill Parks, who owns the house, if he will give it to them, since they have paid rent for twenty-five years.

Uncle Bill says to wait until he feels good enough to get down town to his office. He will then decide. Mrs. Milburn discovers her husband has taken Dan, the son, about fourteen years old, to a pool room.

Emmy decides to give a luncheon for some girl friends at the little yellow house. Her father promised to pay for an extra woman to serve, but he did not come home all night.

Charlie Milburn had been drinking, and came home during the party, much to the embarrassment of Emmy and her cousin, Marianna.

Emmy and Marianna go skating at the Elysium. Emmy falls down and a good looking man picks her up. When she is leaving, Emmy finds him waiting for her outside.

Mrs. Milburn lectures Emmy for letting the stranger bring her home. The older son, who is an artist, alarms the Milburn family by staying away all night.

Perry was the best loved of all the children. He had been going with a girl called Lovey, a friend of Marianna's.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XVIII
A messenger boy stood on the front porch with a telegram in his hand. Emmy signed for it, and looked at it with wide, frightened eyes. She could not remember the time when a telegram had ever come to the house before. What could be in it?

It was addressed to her mother and she carried it back into the kitchen. The instant Mrs. Milburn caught sight of it she began to tremble all over. She stretched out her hand for it and then quickly drew it back.

"I can't open it, Emmy," she said, with her stricken eyes on the yellow envelope. "You do it. The last telegram I had brought me the news of Mark's death and Mary's." That had been fifteen years before when Marianna's mother and father had died in an automobile accident in a Florida winter resort.

Emmy tore open the envelope and Mrs. Milburn waited for her news, sitting on the very edge of the red-cushioned rocker.

"It's from Perry. He's all right," said Emmy, and she read the message aloud:

"Lovey and I were married at Monroe, Michigan, last night. Always promised you gray silk dress and violets for my wedding but this one happened rather suddenly. Please pack up my things. Lovey and I will be around for them and for your blessing some time this afternoon. We are at her house with his bride."

"That's all right," said Emmy, "but I never got much out of 'em. I hope Perry does better than I did." It was a great joke at times.

"Don't! I thought this dress and hat a week ago when I made up my mind to marry Perry," she lifted. "He kept swearing that he wouldn't marry me until he was making five thousand a year and I kept swearing that he just would! Who won?"

Merry Perry Periwinkle. I'm going to lead you all over by your lovely great big nose!" She tweaked it again to show him that she meant business.

Perry grinned down at her sheepishly. He was plainly enraptured by her baby-talk and her cunning little ways.

He sat beside the fire and never

Best love from both of us. PERRY."

Mrs. Milburn sat perfectly still for a long moment. Her hands twisted up in the folds of her fresh white apron. She seemed dazed.

"Monroe, Michigan. Why, that's in another state," she said, as if it were hard for her to take all the message in at once. "How could they get 'way up there and back again this morning, for pity's sake?"

"Easily—in Lovey's automobile," Emmy explained. "It's not so far."

"He's at her house, too," Mrs. Milburn went on thoughtfully, and then: "You think he'll keep on with college until June, don't you, Emmy? You think he'll get his degree, don't you?"

That had been her great dream right along—that Perry should get his degree at college. "Then, if you want to be an illustrator or an architect, you have your foundation. You can go ahead with anything," she would point out to him very often.

"He should have made a home for her first," she said now, with her eyes fixed on the bare black branches of the tree in the McMillers' backyard. "He talked it all over with me yesterday morning, and I told him he had no business even thinking of marriage until he was through school and earning enough money to keep up a little home somewhere."

Emmy agreed with her, too. So I never expected anything like this!"

"Lovey," told Marianna that he could go right in and live with the Sinclairs," said Emmy. "She had been talking it over with Marianna, and Marianna told me that Mr. Sinclair probably would take Perry right into the soap works with him."

Mrs. Milburn shook her head with its smooth brown bands of hair. "That will never do for Perry, I'm afraid. He's no business man. He's still looking at only one woman in all of his life."

"He's completely wrapped up in her," she said when they were gone, "and I'm sure she loves him, too. Only I wonder if he'll be contented doing soap advertisements."

Oh, well, I suppose he'll find time to do the things he wants to do, after business hours."

She was determined to look upon the bright side of the marriage. It was clear. She seemed to have fought down her doubt and fear for Perry, as she had fought down a great many other things in her life.

"Lovey's a wonderful little girl!" declared Mr. Milburn, biting the end from a rich, black cigar. "She shows the right spirit—taking Perry right into her father's business! She's a real woman!"

He never had forgiven his own wife for failing to "get him in right" with Uncle Bill Parks when that old pirate was alive. She could have got him a job with Uncle Bill just as easily as now, he had always told her, with great bitterness. He never knew how many times Mrs. Milburn had gone to plead with her Uncle for just that very thing. But without success.

County, serving one to seven years for larceny.
Lester Bird, 29, of Marion County, serving three to five years for larceny.
John Pablock, 23, of Cuyahoga County, serving three to fifteen years for assault in robbery.
Those reported missing include: Horner, Duncan, Webster, Payung, Carnes, Raybuck, Cooper, Whiting, Hayes, Pickering, Broncher, Jelke, Kearns, Koehnke, Jordan, Snider, Stultz, Cramer, Hill and Cole.
Twenty-one of the 258 prisoners were trapped in the dormitory were still missing at 9:30 a. m., brick plant officials announced after checking the records for hours in an attempt to determine the number burned to death or killed in the rush to escape the blaze.
Some of the twenty-one were known to be dead—victims of the blaze itself or trampled to death during the mad rush to escape from the burning building.
As prison officials and citizens from Junction City and vicinity searched the smoldering ruins of the dormitory, they found several bodies burned beyond recognition. Several arms and legs also were found.
It was possible, Blosser said, that one or two of the twenty might have escaped from the stockade. That could not be determined, however, until the records here could be checked with those in the Columbus office.
Later, seven more men, none of them believed seriously burned, were brought to the hospital.

"It's from Perry. He's all right!"

Best love from both of us, PERRY.

Mrs. Milburn sat perfectly still for a long moment her hands twisted up in the folds of her fresh white apron. She seemed dazed.

"Monroe, Michigan. Why, that's in another state," she said, as if it were hard for her to take all the message in at once. "How could they get away up there and back again this morning, for pity's sake?"

"Easily—in Lovey's automobile," Emmy explained. "It's not so far."

"He's at her house, too," M. S. Milburn went on thoughtfully, and then: "You think he'll keep on with college until June, don't you, Emmy? You think he'll get his degree, don't you?"

That had been her great dream right along—that Perry should get his degree at college. "Then, if you want to be an illustrator or an architect, you have your foundation. You can go ahead with anything," she would point out to him very often.

"He should have made a home for her first," she said now, with her eyes fixed on the bare black branches of the tree in the McMillan's backyard. "He talked it all over with me yesterday morning, and I told him he had no business even thinking of marriage until he was through school and earning enough money to keep up a little home somewhere."

Emmy and Marianna go skating at the Elysium. Emmy falls down and a good looking man picks her up. When she is leaving, Emmy finds him waiting for her outside. Mrs. Milburn lectures Emmy for letting the stranger bring her home. Perry, the older son, who is an artist, alarms the Milburn family by staying away all night. Perry was the best loved of all the children. He had been going with a girl called Lovey, a friend of Marianna's.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

A messenger boy stood on the front porch with a telegram in his hand. Emmy signed for it, and looked at it with wide, brightened eyes. She could not remember the time when a telegram had ever come to the house before. What could be in it?

It was addressed to her mother and she carried it back into the kitchen. The instant Mrs. Milburn caught sight of it she began to tremble all over. She stretched out her hand for it and then quickly drew it back.

"I can't open it, Emmy," she said, with her stricken eyes on the yellow envelope. "You do it. The last telegram I had brought me the news of Mark's death and Mary's." That had been fifteen years before when Marianna's mother and father had died in an automobile accident in a Florida winter resort.

Emmy tore open the envelope and Mrs. Milburn waited for her news, sitting on the very edge of the red-cushioned rocker.

"It's from Perry. He's all right," said Emmy, and she read the message aloud:

"Lovey and I were married at Monroe, Michigan, last night. Always promised you gray silk dress and violets for my wedding but this one happened rather suddenly. Please pack up my things. Lovey and I will be around for them and for your blessing some time this afternoon. We are at her house."

She was as pretty as a picture in a pearl-gray outfit covered by a coat of panther skin, and she clung to Perry's arm in a helpless, appealing little way.

"Why, Lovey, you look just like a bride!" Emmy cried when she heard their car in the street and ran out to welcome them.

"Don't! I bought this dress and hat a week ago when I made up my mind to marry Perry," she lifted. "He kept swearing that he wouldn't marry me until he was making me thousand a year—and I kept swearing that he just would! Who won?"

She stepped in front of her tall young husband and tweaked his straight nose. "Who won, Periwinkle?" she chirped into his face. "Who won, I'd like to know! Who did?"

"You did."

"Course I did! Lovey always gets her way—when her mind's made up!" She stood on her toes and kissed him as they came into the hall. "You'll find that out if you don't know it now. Merry Perry Periwinkle. I'm going to lead you all over by your lovely great big nose!" She tweaked it again to show him that she meant business.

Perry grinned down at her sheepishly. He was plainly enraptured by her baby-talk and her cunning little ways.

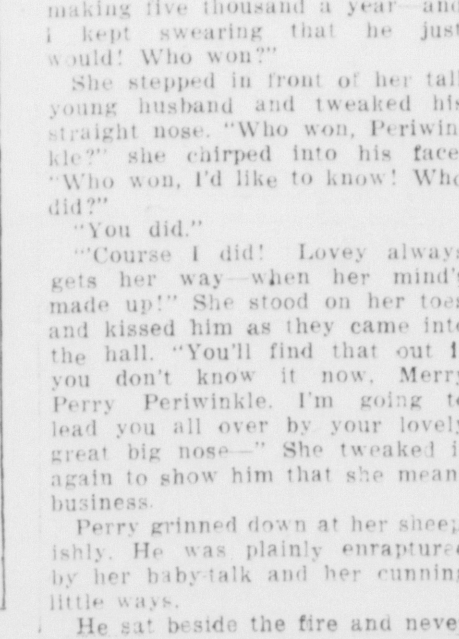

He sat beside the fire and never

BRINGING UP FATHER

By SIDNEY SMITH

The Theater

George Beban, famous portrayer of Italian character roles on stage and screen, is dead. The widely loved actor passed away Friday, when complications from injuries suffered Sunday in a fall from a horse snapped the thread of a vigorous life.

The characterist, who was dragged and pawed by the horse, which reared and threw him as he mounted it, never regained consciousness after the mishap at a resort in the mountains near Big Pine, Cal. He suffered a fractured leg, and other injuries and was brought to the California Lutheran hospital here, where death came.

Beban, who was 55, was born in San Francisco, where he began his stage career at the age of 8. Two years ago he retired from both stage and screen following the death of his wife, Edith MacBride Beban, in New York. His brother, Lewis Beban, San Francisco, was with Beban when he died. His eleven-year-old son, George, and the actor's sister, Mary, were en route to New York as death came.

After starting out in minstrelsy, Beban's first stage playing of any moment was with the famous team of Weber & Fields. Probably his greatest fame came from his film work in the "Sign of the Cross," with which play he later toured the country with a cast of his own film players.

Other of his film characterizations were seen in "Pasquale and His Sweetheart" and "Jules of the Strong Heart." During his film career Beban acquired a considerable fortune and only recently completed an elaborate home at Playa Del Rey on Santa Monica Bay.

CAESARCREEK HIGH WILL OFFER ANNUAL
LYCEUM PROGRAM

Five numbers comprise the Lyceum course announced for Caesar Creek High School for the 1928-29 school year.

The Killarney Colleens, featuring "Tess" Sheehan, are booked for November 9 as the opening number on the course. Irish songs, stories and dramatic numbers are appropriately featured in the entertainment of the Colleens. Theresa Sheehan, the featured artist, is said to have a true Irish appreciation of wholesome fun.

Captain T. Donsmore, Upton, internationally known for his great work with the boys and girls, will deliver a lecture on the second number November 24. His subjects include "Re-creation Through Recreation," "The Player in the Shadow" and "Metal and the Mould."

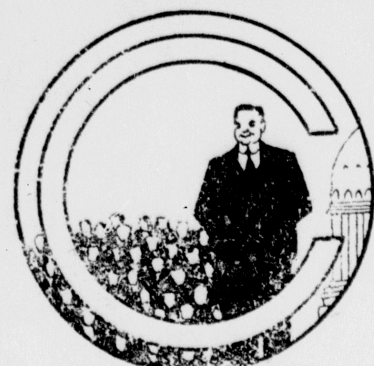

The third number, December 3, features Joy Johannes, dramatic artist, who came direct to the Lyceum in 1927 after a year's study in the New York Theater Guild School, and a season with the Playmakers at Missouri University, Columbia, Mo. She will present a program of short, one-act plays, cuttings from great dramas and miscellaneous numbers.

The Spanish Revelers, a group of players and singers, will appear for the fourth number February 3, 1929. Costumed in the dress of a wandering minstrelsy, with tinkling coins and gaudy colors, they will sing alluring songs of the open road and the flickering fires of vagrant camps.

The fifth and final number will be a high school play, the date of which will be announced later.

CO-OPERATION
Hoover Secures It

Hoover's stupendous achievements would have been impossible for one man working alone. Hoover is not a wizard, to bring miracles to pass. He works with and through other men. He coordinates their activities. It has been said of Hoover that he has a new idea every day, and that every idea has its committee. His ideas are worked out in co-operation with groups of other people. He sets other men to thinking. He inspires them with a sense of the greatness of the task, and stimulates their most effective efforts. Hoover's most enthusiastic boosters are those who have worked with him. And these, both men and women throughout America, total many millions.

Style Keeps You
Young

By MAE MARTIN

Nothing keeps you looking fresh and youthful like stylish clothes. And with little money and no ability to sew, thousands of women are keeping abreast of the shifting tide of style. Their secret is the art of home tinting and dyeing, which is made so simple by true, fadeless Diamond Dyes. Dresses, blouses, stockings, and even coats, that are out of style or faded in color, are made fresh and new looking with a few cents worth of Diamond Dyes. Anyone can do it. Diamond Dyes are so easy to use. They never fail. Gorgeous new colors appear like magic, right over the old, dull or faded ones. Tinting with Diamond Dyes is as easy as bluing, and it takes just a little longer to "set" the colors in dyeing. They are true dyes, the kind used when the cloth was made. See that you get Diamond Dyes and save disappointment.

My new sixty-four page illustrated book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of suggestions for brightening and freshening your home and wardrobe at little cost. Send for your copy. NOW. It's FREE. Just write Mae Martin, Home Service Dept., Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont.

AUTO FORCED INTO
DITCH; TURNS OVER

County authorities began a search for a "hit-and-run" autoist after a coach driven by Carl J. Stockles, 1126 Dakota St., Dayton, O., and occupied by his wife and four children, was crowded off the Dayton and Xenia Pike west of Zimmerman and after crashing into a pole, overturned in a ditch at 6 p. m. Saturday.

Stockles was cut and bruised but his wife and children received nothing more serious than minor scratches to show for their experience.

Stockles, who was driving toward Dayton, reported that when he attempted to pass another auto and sounded his horn, the other car speeded up, refused to allow him to pass and crowded his car off the road. After the accident the second car is alleged to have continued on without stopping.

Deputy Sheriff George Sugden, investigated the crash.

Will not warp EDGWOOD Red Cedar Shingles

YOUR roof and your foundation are the two first essentials in the construction of your home. Nature created in British Columbia Red Cedar a roofing material that is immune to decay. From these centuries old trees the Consolidated Shingle Manufacturers have fashioned a superior shingle . . . the best man can make. To enable you to identify this shingle they have trademarked it EDGWOOD

Note the Difference in the Grain of the Wood

EDGWOOD RED CEDAR SHINGLE

FLAT GRAIN RED CEDAR SHINGLE

This is a 300% perfect shingle . . . all heart . . . all clear . . . all edgegrain. Note the straight parallel grain of the wood. Sawed edgegrain they positively will not warp, cup or curl. They lie tight and flat to the sheathing for fifty years and more.

This shingle is sawn flat-grain. Note the irregular grain of the wood. This causes warping, cupping and curling. The flat-grain shingles are NOT EDGWOODS and should be used ONLY on temporary structures . . . NEVER on roofs of residences.

Durability: Endowed by nature with a time-resisting preservative, EDGWOOD Shingles are immune to decay. They will last fifty years and more if laid with zinc-clad or other rust-proof nails.

Appearance: The overlapping butts of EDGWOODS create luminous high lights, deep shadows and soft pencilled lines. No other building materials absorb and holds color so well.

Safety: Sawed edgegrain . . . positive assurance against warping . . . EDGWOODS lie tight and flat to the sheathing . . . giving maximum resistance to brands or sparks. Fire tests by the State Firemen's Convention of Iowa, proved conclusively, that EDGWOOD Red Cedar Shingles offer greater resistance than many so called fire-proof roofings. And, it is worthy of note, that only .0327% of residential fires originate on roofs.

Insulation: Each square inch of Red Cedar possesses 6,000 to 10,000 minute air-cells. This, with three overlapping butts, create in EDGWOOD Shingles a sidewall or roof that possesses 10 to 47% greater insulating qualities than any other standard exterior building material. The statistics of the Bureau of Industrial Research reveals that EDGWOOD Red Cedar Shingles on sidewalls and roofs will save the average home-owner from $2,427.60 to as much as $4,807.60 in fuel expenditures over a period of thirty years. It is significant, that the Fire Prevention Bureau of the Chicago Fire Department, says: "Most of the sub-zero fires are caused by the efforts to heat homes comfortably by forcing the heating plants or stoves beyond the point of safety." This is the result of using improper insulating building materials.

Economy: The cost of constructing an EDGWOOD roof is but $15 to $20 more than the cheapest composition roofing, or a flat-grain shingle, while the durability is from two to five times greater. Compared with the better grade asbestos, slate or tile, the cost of EDGWOODS is less than half and the EDGWOOD Roof will last fifty years and more. The savings on sidewalls is 10% and upward over any other material.

These Dealers Recommend and Sell EDGWOOD Shingles

Five numbers comprise the Lyceum course announced for Caesar Creek High School for the 1928-29 school year.

The Killarney Colleens, featuring "Tess" Sheehan, are booked for November 9 as the opening number on the course. Irish songs, stories and dramatic numbers are appropriately featured in the entertainment of the Colleens. Theresa Sheehan, the featured artist, is said to have a true Irish appreciation of wholesome fun.

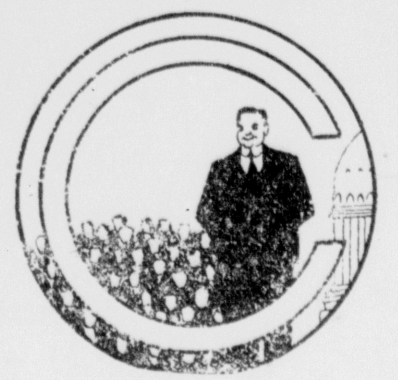

Captain T. Donsmore Upton, internationally known for his great work with the boys and girls, will deliver a lecture on the second number November 24. His subjects include "Re-creation Through Recreation," "The Player in the Shadow" and "Metal and the Mould."

The third number, December 3, features Joy Johannes, dramatic artist, who came direct to the Lyceum in 1927 after a year's study in the New York Theater Guild School, and a season with the Playmakers at Missouri University, Columbia, Mo. She will present a program of short, one-act plays, cuttings from great dramas and miscellaneous numbers.

The Spanish Revelers, a group of players and singers, will appear for the fourth number February 3, 1929. Costumed in the dress of a wandering minstrelsy, with tinkling coins and gaudy colors, they will sing alluring songs of the open road and the flickering fires of vaudeville camps.

The fifth and final number will be a high school play, the date of which will be announced later.

HOOVER ALPHABET

CO-OPERATION
Hoover Secures It

Hoover's stupendous achievements would have been impossible for one man working alone. Hoover is not a wizard, to bring miracles to pass. He works with and through other men. He co-ordinates their activities. It has been said of Hoover that he has a new idea every day, and that every idea has its committee. His ideas are worked out in co-operation with groups of other people. He sets other men to thinking. He inspires them with a sense of the greatness of the task, and stimulates their most effective efforts. Hoover's most enthusiastic boosters are those who have worked with him. And these, both men and women throughout America, total many millions.

Style Keeps You
Young
By MAE MARTIN

Nothing keeps you looking fresh and youthful like stylish clothes. And with little money and no ability to sew, thousands of women are keeping abreast of the shifting tide of style. Their secret is the art of home tinting and dyeing, which is made so simple by true, fadeless Diamond Dyes. Dresses, blouses, stockings, and even coats, that are out of style or faded in color, are made fresh and new looking with a few cents worth of Diamond Dyes. Anyone can do it. Diamond Dyes are so easy to use. They never fail. Gorgeous new colors appear like magic, right over the old, dull or faded ones. Tinting with Diamond Dyes is as easy as bluing, and it takes just a little longer to "set" the colors in dyeing. They are true dyes, the kind used when the cloth was made. See that you get Diamond Dyes and save disappointment.

My new sixty-four page illustrated book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of suggestions for brightening and freshening your home and wardrobe at little cost. Send for your copy, NOW. It's FREE. Just write Mae Martin, Home Services Dept., Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont.

AUTO FORCED INTO
DITCH; TURNS OVER

County authorities began a search for a "hit-and-run" autoist after a coach driven by Carl J. Stockles, 1126 Dakota St., Dayton, O., and occupied by his wife and four children, was crowded off the Dayton and Xenia Pike west of Zinsman and after crashing into a pole, overturned in a ditch at 6 p. m. Saturday.

Stockles was cut and bruised but his wife and children received nothing more serious than minor scratches to show for their experience.

Stockles, who was driving toward Dayton, reported that when he attempted to pass another auto and sounded his horn, the other car speeded up, refused to allow him to pass and crowded his car off the road. After the accident the second car is alleged to have continued on without stopping.

Deputy Sheriff George Sugden, investigated the crash.

GIVEN SUSPENDED
SENTENCE BY COURT

After entering a guilty plea to a grand jury indictment for forgery, Theodore Lee, 18, was given a suspended sentence of from one to twenty years in the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield, O., by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy Saturday morning.

The sentence was suspended in view of the fact Lee made restitution for passing a bogus check for $31 on the Commercial and Savings Bank. The check was made payable to himself and signed with the name "B. Barker."

Will not warp EDGWOOD Red Cedar Shingles

YOUR roof and your foundation are the two first essentials in the construction of your home. Nature created in British Columbia Red Cedar a roofing material that is immune to decay. From these centuries old trees the Consolidated Shingle Manufacturers have fashioned a superior shingle . . . the best man can make. To enable you to identify this shingle they have trademarked it EDGWOOD

Note the Difference in the Grain of the Wood

EDGWOOD RED CEDAR SHINGLE

FLAT GRAIN RED CEDAR SHINGLE

This is a 300% perfect shingle . . . all heart . . . all clear . . . all edgegrain. Note the straight parallel grain of the wood. Sawn edgegrain they positively will not warp, cup or curl. They lie tight and flat to the sheathing for fifty years and more.

Durability: Endowed by nature with a time-resisting preservative, EDGWOOD Shingles are immune to decay. They will last fifty years and more if laid with zinc-clad or other rust-proof nails.

Appearance: The overlapping butts of EDGWOODS create luminous high lights, deep shadows and soft pencilled lines. No other building materials absorb and holds color so well.

Safety: Sawn edgegrain . . . positive assurance against warping . . . EDGWOODS lie tight and flat to the sheathing . . . giving maximum resistance to brands or sparks. Fire tests by the State Firemen's Convention of Iowa, proved conclusively, that EDGWOOD Red Cedar Shingles offer greater resistance than many so called fire-proof roofings. And, it is worthy of note, that only .0327% of residential fires originate on roofs.

This shingle is sawn flat-grain. Note the irregular grain of the wood. This causes warping, cupping and curling. The flat-grain shingles are NOT EDGWOODS and should be used ONLY on temporary structures . . . NEVER on roofs of residences.

Insulation: Each square inch of Red Cedar possesses 6,000 to 10,000 minute air-cells. This, with three overlapping butts, create in EDGWOOD Shingles a sidewall or roof that possesses 10 to 47% greater insulating qualities than any other standard exterior building material. The statistics of the Bureau of Industrial Research reveals that EDGWOOD Red Cedar Shingles on sidewalls and roofs will save the average home-owner from $2,427.60 to as much as $4,807.60 in fuel expenditures over a period of thirty years. It is significant, that the Fire Prevention Bureau of the Chicago Fire Department, says: "Most of the sub-zero fires are caused by the efforts to heat homes comfortably by forcing the heating plants or stoves beyond the point of safety." This is the result of using improper insulating building materials.

Economy: The cost of constructing an EDGWOOD roof is but $15 to $20 more than the cheapest composition roofing, or a flat-grain shingle, while the durability is from two to five times greater. Compared with the better grade asbestos, slate or tile, the cost of EDGWOODS is less than half and the EDGWOOD Roof will last fifty years and more. The savings on sidewalls is 10% and upward over any other material.
